Result of Baker Probe

Police Committee For Ethics Planned By Senate Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a sequel to the politically high-voltage Bobby Baker investigation, Senate leaders planned to activate today a new permanent committee to police senatorial ethics.

Three senators of each party already have been chosen for the new watchdog committee on standards on conduct, created by the Senate a year ago. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was decided to hold up announcing them until the Baker probe was finished.

That came Wednesday, with a final report from the Rules Committee that said Baker had flagrantly abused his office to "feather his own nest." The report recommended careful consideration of the possibility of indicting Baker for violation of conflict of interest laws.

The committee's Republican minority renewed its charges of a Democratic cover-up and whitewash, saying the investigation was incomplete because of the refusal of Democrats to call numerous witnesses.

Baker parlayed his outside business holdings while serving as the $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority. He resigned his Senate post Oct. 7, 1963, just before the investigation started.

Former Page

A one-time Senate page boy from Pickens, S.C., Baker was reported to be in California Wednesday and could not be reached for comment. He had invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination in two appearances before the Rules Committee and refused to answer questions.

To try to avoid future conflict of interest cases, the committee in its report Wednesday recommended immediate activation of the watchdog committee. Mansfield said this would be done.

The new committee will be responsible for investigating any improper or illegal conduct.

Pope May Visit U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Vatican's United Nations observer said today he expected Pope Paul VI to attend the next session of the U.N. General Assembly to start in September.

Mgr. Alberto Giovannetti, the Holy See observer, told a reporter it is premature to speculate on just when the Pope might be here or how long he might stay. But he expressed hope the Pope could address the 114-nation assembly.

Three Men Arrested

Police Seize Weapons Believed Cuba-Bound

NEW YORK (AP) — Police reported today the seizure of mortars, machine guns, pistols and ammunition at a sporting goods shop that allegedly had been shipping armaments to an anti-Castro group inside Cuba.

Three men—one listed as a Cuban—were arrested.

Detective Edward Lehane, head of a six-man detail that raided the shop, said armaments had been sent to South America for reshipment to Cuba. The South American destination was not made public.

Weapons Seized
Lehane listed the seized material as two 60mm mortars, 25 machine guns, 1,000 rounds of ammunition for the machine guns, a number of pistols and blasting caps, and detonators for the mortars. No mortar shells were found.

Lehane gave this account: Detectives learned that munitions for the anti-Castro group— for which no name was made public—were being shipped from the M. and D. Sports Shop

(at 6422 14th ave.) in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. The six detectives went to the store Thursday night and watched the Cuban and two other men loading a car parked outside with the weapons later seized.

Drawn Guns

With guns drawn, the detectives closed in and seized the three.

The detectives entered the store and found it carries the usual line of sports goods.

In the rear, however, they said they found a small machine factory where deactivated weapons — mostly of German make during World War II and since — had been reactivated with lathes and other machines.

The three men were booked at a police station early today on charges of violation of state anti-weapons law and of conspiracy to sell weapons illegally.

Prisoners Named

The prisoners were listed as: George De Meo, 31, of (1364 64th st.) Brooklyn, proprietor of the store.

Antonio Guardino, 36, of (705 E. 85th st.) Brooklyn, an employee of the shop.

Louis Marti, 33, a Cuban, of (1312 Oak Point ave.) the Bronx.

Police said he was a representative of an anti-Castro group with members in Cuba, Miami, Fla., and elsewhere.

They said the car being loaded with the weapons belongs to Marti.

Red Guerrillas Kill Airman, Destroy Planes at Da Nang

More Marines Landed for Area Security and Combat Support of Vietnamese

BY PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong killed one American, destroyed three planes and damaged three others in a hit-and-run attack on the Da Nang Air Base today. But U.S. Air Force and Navy planes struck at North Viet Nam during the day without letup.

Bridges, barracks and radar installations were among the prime targets, and more propaganda leaflets were dropped over populated areas, a U.S. spokesman said. He said all planes returned safely.

More U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam, at the coastal city of Qui Nhon. A U.S. spokesman said between 400 and 500 were coming ashore from 7th Fleet ships and would provide security for the Qui Nhon area as well as "combat support for the Republic of South Viet Nam's armed forces."

Marine Defenses

Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is the fourth area to be defended by the Leathernecks. The others are the air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon; Chu Lai, 20 miles south of Da Nang, and Phu Bai, 35 miles north of Da Nang.

In the central highlands 150 miles south of Da Nang, four Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a Communist ambush near Cheo Reo. But the Red guerrillas were driven off with heavy losses after a day of close-in fighting.

The unofficial total of American combat dead in Viet Nam totaled 445 since December 1961.

Hit-Run Attack

The hit-and-run attack at Da Nang was carried out while a majority of the Americans on the key base were asleep.

U.S. military authorities in Saigon said their information indicated a small group of guerrillas — possibly six men — infiltrated onto the base with explosives and 57mm recoilless rifles.

In the confusion immediately following the attack, military men on the base had said the damage was done by 81mm mortar fire. Later reports indicated, however, that only about 10 rounds from mortars hit at the southern edge of the base and apparently did little damage.

Policeman Killed

A U.S. spokesman said one U.S. Air Force policeman was killed by small arms fire and two U.S. Marines were wounded.

Two C130 Hercules transports and an F102 Delta Dagger jet interceptor were destroyed, and another Hercules and two Delta Daggers were damaged, the

U.S. Entering 6th Straight Year in Red

Officials Proud Of Lower Deficit For Fiscal 1965

BY STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government entered its sixth straight year of red-ink financing today but pointed with some pride to a sharply reduced deficit in the fiscal year just ended.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced that the fiscal 1965 deficit, on which the books closed at midnight, was an estimated $3.5 billion. That compared with President Johnson's January forecast of a $6.3 billion deficit.

The secretary foresaw a $4.2-billion deficit for the new fiscal year. That implies a $1.1-billion improvement since January. Some other officials predicted privately that this deficit, too, will be whittled down if the business boom continues.

Sound Economy
Assurance that the boom will indeed continue was given by Fowler at a fiscal year-end news conference. Conditions are excellent, he said, for "sound, stable and sustainable economic health and expansion."

Fowler went on: "So far as the eye of economic foresight can see ahead, there is no indication of economic difficulty."

"It is still entirely possible to

Official, Red Carpet Welcome

First Commercial Plane, Passengers Are Landed at New County Airport

BY DICK LYNEIS

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Officials of Outagamie County, the Fox Cities and representatives of private business and industry rolled out the red carpet to make North Central Airlines feel welcome today as the airline began service at the new Outagamie County Airport.

Commercial aviation arrived at the new airport in the Town of Greenville, four miles west of Appleton, at 10:44 a.m. when a North Central DC3 landed on the 5,200-foot runway.

First Passenger

The first passenger off the plane was Leo McCoy, manager of travel service for Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah. He was greeted by Outagamie County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly, Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce President Willard Johnson, Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell and North Central's station manager, Herman Jolitz.

A crowd of 200, including members of the county board, stood behind the fence near the passenger terminal to view welcoming ceremonies.

Gold Keys

Gold-colored keys to the new airport were presented to the pilot, first officer and stewardess of the North Central plane by Mitchell, Fulcer and Johnson. Gift certificates from Appleton businessmen were presented to the airline's permanent ground personnel who are stationed at the Outagamie Airport.

McCoy, the first passenger, issued a statement shortly after he got off the plane.

"Kimberly-Clark," he said, "is especially interested in the new airport from the commercial travelers' standpoint. Our objective is to have the best possible service for our travelers, not only in the air, but including ground services also."

"The closer we can land to our headquarters," he said, "the less time our people spend away from work. Since most of our people live in the Fox Cities, we like to see good air facilities as close to us as possible. We, of course, are interested in seeing more flights come to the Fox Cities."

Think Big

"We feel the facilities here are excellent," McCoy concluded, "and we certainly look forward to more flights here in the near future and larger equipment."

Fulcer called this morning's flight "a start. From here," he continued, "the only way we can go is up. If residents of Outagamie County, and the county board itself, will continue to think big, we will develop this into one of the most active airports north of Milwaukee."

"Now," Fulcer said, "we should start looking to our general and industrial aviation needs as well as our needs for commercial air service. If we will do this, our future is assured."

Mitchell said he was "pleased to participate in the ceremonies for the inaugural flight at Outagamie County's new airport."

"We sincerely hope," he said,

"that we will continue to see this airport expand and grow and that additional flights will be added. There is no doubt that adequate air flights will be used extensively by the people of Appleton."

Johnson was enthusiastic about the future of aviation in the Fox Cities.

"The enthusiasm shown here by many people today," he said, "hopefully will encourage North Central to expand and improve its service at the Outagamie County Airport. To this goal, the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce pledges its full support, both to the airline and to the county."

Suggests U.N.-Imposed Peace

Morse Calls for All-Out Effort To Halt War in South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse called on the Johnson administration today for an all-out effort to "stop the war" in Viet Nam and "to exhaust every possible means of doing so through the United Nations."

The Oregon Democrat, long an outspoken critic of President Johnson's Southeast Asian policy, declared that the President's 20th anniversary speech to the United Nations last week "unfortunately honored the Charter of the organization more in the breach than in the observance."

Noting that Johnson expressed a willingness to accept whatever effective action the United Nations might take, Morse said nothing "to indicate that the United States is willing to accept the obligations for international behavior placed upon us by our signature on that Charter."

U.N. Imposed Peace
"We can not stop the war alone," Morse declared in a speech prepared for Senate delivery. "But the United Nations could, if it would, and the United States has more to gain from a U.N.-imposed peace than from a continuation of the fighting that can lead anywhere but to victory on our terms."

If anything has been learned, Morse said, "it is that the United States, acting alone, can not end the war."

"At worst, we can help it develop into a nuclear holocaust," he added. "At best we can assure that it drags on indefinitely, while the people of South Viet Nam pay the price of being caught between the world's ideologies."

While Morse was speaking in the Senate, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan scheduled a morning news conference at which he seemed likely to get the opportunity to defend himself against criticism of House GOP chiefs.

Wednesday by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Mansfield told the Senate that House Republican leaders are telling Johnson to step up the bombing of North Viet Nam and calling for a "complete victory" to be achieved without use of U.S. ground forces. Unless the President follows their advice, Mansfield said, the Republicans are threatening to withdraw their support.

Indiscriminate Slaughter
Mansfield excluded Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen from his remarks. Dirksen planned to join Ford at today's news conference. Mansfield accused the House

Republicans of advocating air and naval attacks on North Viet Nam which "can only amount to an indiscriminate slaughter of Vietnamese — of combatant and noncombatants alike."

Dirksen made no reply to Mansfield's statement. But Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, a senior GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee, took the floor to say that he was disturbed by warlike statements on spokesman said. All were at the southern end of the airstrip.

He said fire from the recoilless rifles hit the four-engine turboprop transports and jet fighters.

A U. S. Army spokesman announced a Communist guerrilla from North Viet Nam was captured following the attack. He said the guerrilla admitted taking part in the assault.

Wounded Guerrilla
The guerrilla was wounded and apparently had been left behind.

A U. S. Marine lieutenant in charge of security on the west side of the air base said he deployed two squads to the area under attack within 10 minutes. He said his men engaged the Viet Cong with small arms fire.

"I'm positive we got some Viet Cong," he said. "We saw some bodies hung on barbed wire, but now they are gone."

U. S. Marine forces launched a sweep at dawn through the area south of the base.

Flares lit the sky the rest of the night as reconnaissance planes buzzed the area.

"I was standing on the flight line and I thought the pop of the mortars was our own guns," said Marine Staff Sgt. J. J. Brown of Fremont, Calif. "Then I saw the shells landing and I knew right away it was an attack.

"I figured the whole area was infested with Viet Cong, but we didn't have any weapons so we ducked down out of sight."

Maj. George V. Moore of McCook, Neb., commander of the F102 detachment, said 25 pilots and crewmen were sleeping in tents in the area where the mortar shells landed. Two pilots were reported injured by flying glass.

"I was asleep," Moore said. "Suddenly there were explosions going off all around me. There was mortar and small arms fire and I was knocked out of my bed and against the side of the tent."

Ground crewmen rushed in with tractors and dragged the undamaged jet interceptors to the center of the airstrip.

"A lot of brave people went in there," a U. S. Air Force spokesman said.

First Attack

It was the first such attack on the key base, guarded by about 9,500 U. S. Marines who landed in the Da Nang area last March.

Air Force and Army personnel have been at the base since early 1962.

The busy field and the nearby town of Da Nang have been considered for months to be prime targets for a hit-and-run Viet Cong attack.

The sprawling base complex is ringed by Vietnamese villages or scattered thatched-roof huts in the countryside. The city of Da Nang, with 160,000 people, is South Viet Nam's second largest.

"We can stop them from coming in, but they can hit us with mortars and they can probably sneak a few men into the base itself if they are willing to take the risk," an American officer said recently.

Major Base

The base is one of the three major air installations in the country. The other two are Bien Hoa, just north of Saigon, and Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase.

From Da Nang, 25,000 strikes have been flown each month in recent months.

In the battle near Cheo Reo, two battalions of Vietnamese paratroopers and an infantry battalion were on their way to evacuate the 2,000 inhabitants of a district town when the Viet Cong hit.

Whooping and blowing bull horns, the Viet Cong swarmed into the first paratrooper battalion. The other two battalions also came under attack.

Road Convoy

A road convoy of 18 trucks stopped when the shooting was heard. The Viet Cong swept over it and an American Army private was killed. Soon after, a U. S. Air Force radio operator was killed.

Eleven other Americans, eleven an experimental mobile control unit fled into the brush and came out later unhurt. Viet Cong fire slammed into a U. S. spotter plane and it crashed in trees. Both Americans aboard, an Army officer and an Air Force officer, were killed.

The Communists advanced on a Vietnamese artillery position with four 105mm howitzers but point blank fire from the heavy guns held off the guerrillas.

Air Strikes

With the help of air strikes, the Viet Cong were beaten off, but both sides suffered heavy losses. In addition to the American and Vietnamese dead, two Americans and possibly 80 Vietnamese were wounded.

Viet Cong bodies were scattered around the hill slopes. There were estimates that up to 130 Reds were killed.

On the diplomatic front informed sources in London said there were indications Communist North Viet Nam might receive the British Commonwealth's peace mission.

American Plot
Hanoi Radio and North Vietnamese newspapers have denounced the mission as a pro-American plot, echoing Communist China's line. But the London sources said the Hanoi government had called in British Consul General Myles Ponsonby for a talk on the subject.

Thousands of British opposing U. S. and British policy in Viet Nam jammed into the lobbies of the House of Commons Wednesday.

The mass pressure on Parliament was coordinated with a debate on Viet Nam in the House of Lords, the presentation of petitions at Prime Minister Harold Wilson's residence, and a teach-in at a hall across the street from Parliament.

Intimidacies Denied
It said Mrs. Rometsch, who has since gone back to Germany, admitted knowing Baker but denied any intimacies with him "or with any government officials including congressmen, Cabinet members, or persons connected with the White House."

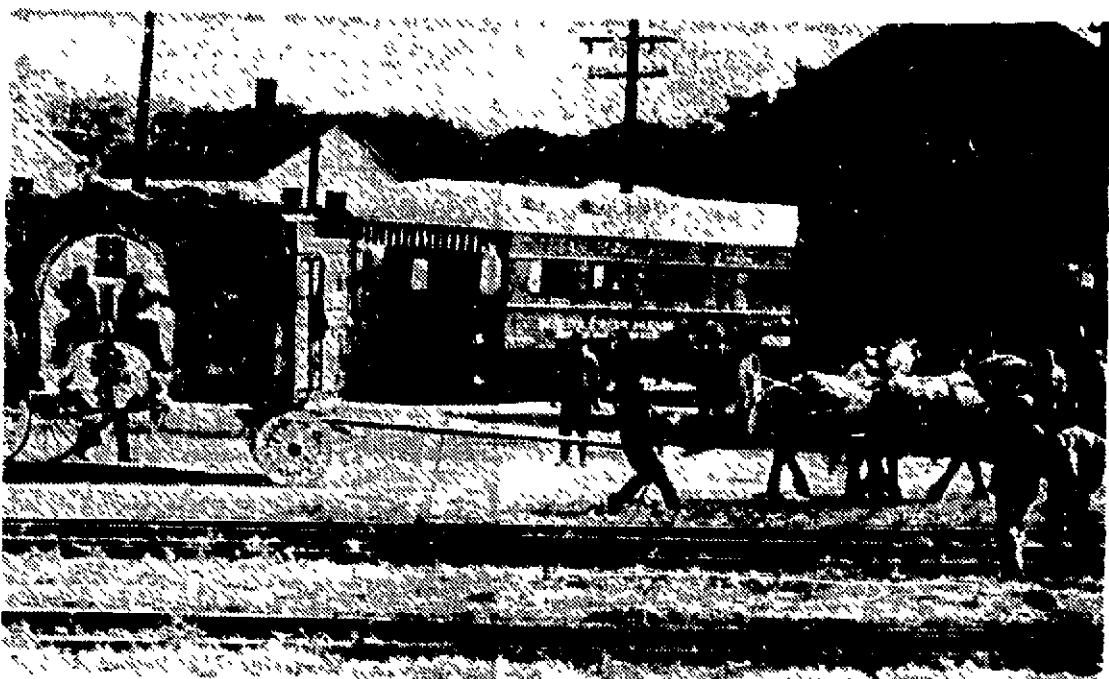

The Justice Department summary also listed other admitted prostitutes who claimed associations with Washington officials. It disguised their identities as "Mrs. A," "Mrs. B," "Miss C" and so on.

"Mrs. C" admitted to having sexual intercourse with persons in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government but declined to identify the individuals involved, the summary said. "She said she did not want her husband to know of her past prostitution activities."

A letter from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach suggested that publication of the entire file on Mrs. Rometsch "would serve to destroy the reputation of several individuals on the basis of allegations which may be false or which are wholly unrelated to the subject matter of the committee's inquiry."

have a recession some time in the distant future; (but) our analysis of the economic situation reveals none of those imbalances or excesses that bring about economic downturns."

However, the fiscal outlook is not completely rosy. Government sources reported that:

Spending Level

The $100-billion yearly spending level, avoided narrowly by Johnson for the past two years, undoubtedly will be crossed in fiscal 1967, the year which begins 12 months from today.

The Defense Department, which provided most of the budget cuts that made room for Johnson's new "Great Society" programs, is unlikely to find further substantial savings possible.

The 1967 budget, already in early stages of preparation, will show another deficit, the seventh in succession.

A balanced budget may be achieved in fiscal 1968.

Excise Tax Cut

Last week's cut in excise taxes, a bigger one than Johnson had proposed in January, will postpone the arrival of a balanced budget. But administration economists contend that its stimulative effects, like that of the great tax reduction of 1964, will underpin the national prosperity and make eventual surpluses more certain.

Fowler's announcement of the new deficit figure was the fourth official revision of the estimate in the President's budget message to Congress less than six months ago. Income tax payments have poured into the Treasury in wholly unexpected volume, contributing most of the $1.7 billion improvement in revenues.

mittee vice-chairman John Dietz called the occasion "a milestone in Fox Cities aviation progress. From now on you'll see quite an increase in passenger traffic out of the new airport and a much greater increase if we get better service."

Rudolph Spreeman, chairman of the Town of Greenville where the new airport is located, said, "I just hope that it is here to stay and that the airport will continue to grow. I want to see North Central remain here and I hope they make good progress."

Jolitz said, "All the people here have made all of us from North Central Airlines feel very welcome. Everyone was wonderful to us and it's good to see such an enthusiastic turnout."

"It's a good feeling," he added, "to be able to work at such a good airport as the one that Outagamie County built."

Circus Train Chugs to 'Old Milwaukee'

Gay Reminders of
Of 4th of July Parade

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Laden with nostalgia, a gaily painted ghost wheezed across the Wisconsin countryside today toward a rendezvous with ageless joy.

Puffing out of Baraboo at daybreak, an old-fashioned circus train carried its cargo of bandwagons, animal cages and other parade pieces on a 110-mile journey to initiate Milwaukee's Fourth of July festivities.

The "Day in Old Milwaukee" celebration — actually lasting five days — was to begin this afternoon with the train's arrival and lakefront unloading of 40 ornately carved and richly painted circus wagons with a history dating back to 1897.

A 1923 steam engine, with labored breathing and smoky belches, pulled its 16-car chain of circus treasure through Lodi, Waunakee, Madison, Jefferson Junction, Dousman, and Waukesha to Milwaukee to bring a new debut to the third annual festival.

The circus flat cars, acquired from a now-defunct show, were loaded by trained teams of Wednesday at Baraboo, home of the Circus World Museum and birthplace of the Ringling Brothers circus.

The wagons used in circus parades at the turn of the century — are the jewels of the museum's collection and will be displayed on Milwaukee's lakefront until the city's gigantic parade Monday.

Engine No. 4960, loaned by the Burlington Railroad, chugged across the countryside at 20 miles an hour. About 125 dignitaries and circus buffs rode in three passenger cars in the train.

The parade Monday will be spiced with the 40 circus wagons, nearly two dozen bands and marching units, a horse-drawn calliope, elephants and camels ridden by Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus performers, and countless clowns. An estimated 500,000 people watched the 1964 parade.

Another Republican, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, told the Senate that support for President Johnson's stand in Viet Nam may lessen when "the growing casualty rate affects more and more American families."

As of now, Mrs. Smith said, "The overwhelming majority of Americans support President Johnson's refusal to pull out of South Viet Nam."

She said she "would not want to hazard a guess" on how much that majority would be lessened "if the draft calls are increased — if the National Guard, or large segments of it, is federalized and sent to Viet Nam — and if the reserve is called up and sent to Viet Nam."

The Vermont senator said he thinks the statements of some Republican leaders "might be interpreted as urging the President to broaden and intensify the war in Asia" and he felt that there were inherent dangers in them.

"We should not attempt to discredit the President merely because he does not precipitate us into a great war," Aiken said. He added that Johnson already had made some mistakes in Southeast Asia "and I do not intend to urge him to make greater mistakes."

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, July 1, the 162nd day of 1965. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1898 in Cuba, American troops stormed San Juan Hill under a withering fire from the Spanish entrenched at the top. Among the attacking units was Col. Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Rider cavalry. The Spaniards fled and "Teddy" and his men looked down on Santiago.

In 1863, advance units of Confederate infantry exchanged fire with Union cavalry at the Pennsylvania farm village of Gettysburg. It was the start of the Battle of Gettysburg.

In 1941, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps reached Al Alamein.

In 1943, the pay-as-you-go income tax law went into effect. Ten years ago — A transport and communications strike over the cost of living paralyzed six provinces of Chile.

Five years ago — The Eisenhower administration asked Congress for power to cut the quota of sugar imported from Cuba.

Alcoholism—The Family Disease

BY THELMA C. PURTELL

Alcoholism is the misfortune of the forties. This is the age when pressures from outside make a man feel that he is less than adequate unless he is capable of running the world. And jauntily, too. He reads every day that it is now or never. He is expected to be at the peak of his business career and ready for an afternoon of tennis. It is taken for granted that he is the confidant of his sons, the admiration of his daughters and the sturdy oak on whom his wife depends. Some 5,000,000 men drinkers and close to a million known women drinkers have taken refuge in alcohol from the whole complex situation.

The fight for re-education concerning alcoholism has made great progress. For one thing, it has behind it a huge, nationwide, well-endowed organization devoted to the rehabilitation of the alcoholic and his family. The National Council on Alcoholism sponsors Alcoholics Anonymous or AA for the victim himself.

Also there is Alanon, where the wife or husband can join with others in the same predicament. They can talk over their problem, and benefit, not only from the release that comes from being able to speak frankly, but from the advice and help of trained advisors. There is even a group especially for the youngsters in such a home, Alateen.

The First Step There has been a small effort to start a Gamblers Anonymous, but it lacks the national scope and financial backing. Perhaps because it is a less dramatic form of escape and its results are more easily disguised. There is an uneasy taboo on the open frank discussion of mental illness.

The partners in these tragedies still suffer alone, as did the spouse of an alcoholic until a very short time ago. First of all, the families of an alcoholic must accept the basic fact that this is a disease, or rather, a symptom of some deep disturbance. The sufferer cannot conquer it by himself. He must have help.

Sixty-eight per cent of the population of the United States are social drinkers. Only seven or eight per cent are true alcoholics. But when we realize that each of these involves his wife and children in his personal tragedy, the number of victims is multiplied four-fold. That is why alcoholism is called the family disease. The usual concept is that the alcoholic is a man. Yet a woman has always found it easier to conceal her dependence on alcohol. Whether addicted to whiskey, vanilla extract or a patent medicine, housewives are not out in the world as men are, and can cover up with "nervous" headaches and complaints of female weakness. Also, it is harder for a man to admit, even to himself, that a woman he has chosen would have to resort to this consolation.

Men and women first turn to drink as a solace for the same reasons. They drink to show they are good sports; they drink because it is the accepted, to try shows that some seeds have been planted. An experienced counselor never uses the term "alcoholic." He may say, "don't you think you might have a wee touch of alcoholism?" This admittedly is like asking a woman if she doesn't think she is a little bit pregnant, but it gets a foot in the door.

Patience is considered the greatest single factor in effecting a cure according to the Rev. Eugene A. Verdery, chaplain of the Georgia Baptist Hospital, who has dedicated his life to this work. Especially on the part of the wife. He calls it "coping with them through hoping with them. If... (the alcoholic) knows that the wife is merely coping for her own welfare and as an end for her own satisfaction, there is never success."

The problem of the alcoholic wife is immensely complicated by the fact that men more frequently turn against a woman who drinks to excess, if the husband will admit the fact at all. It is a part of the old double standard that men may be driven to drink by their wives, but women somehow should be above it.

The role of the alcoholic's wife is not to serve as a crutch, or to gain status in her own eyes by her forbearance. She must learn the difficult lesson of the difference between being reliable, steadfast—and taking over. Unfortunately it is hard not to get private satisfaction out of assuming the dominant role.

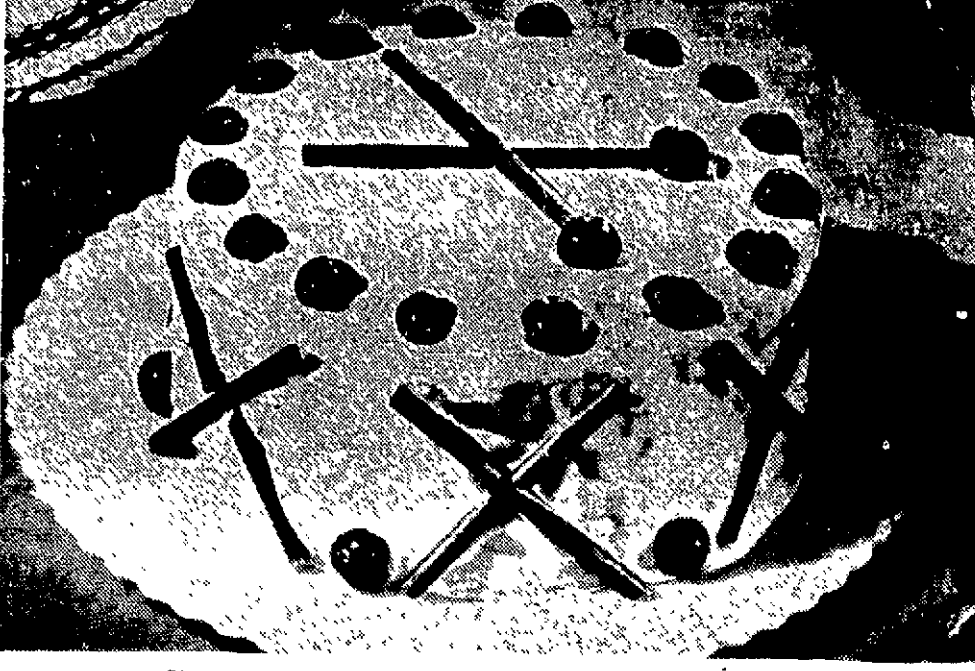

In case after case, workers find the person who complains the most about his weak, dependent alcoholic mate, is finding his own strength in the role of self-appointed savior. In the long run, public opinion has done much to help the man or woman who has stopped drinking, who has conquered himself.

It is no longer considered amusing to ask a person to have a drink if he refuses one. No one but a boor would question his motives, or badger him, any more than he would ask if he had stopped beating his wife. Tomorrow: How middle-aged children treat their parents.

sophisticated thing to do. They drink to give themselves courage. They drink to show off, on occasion both men and women drink to escape boredom. How does the process of rehabilitation work? A relative or a friend makes a first appointment for the alcoholic with a doctor, pastor or counselor. Here comes the first jolt which the family must be ready to take. Less than 50 per cent, no matter what promises have been made, will appear for the meeting. It is one of the axioms of the National Council that a drinker must hit bottom before he is ready to start up. He may not be ready as yet to accept help, but the very fact that he agreed

Zip Code Mandatory For All Bulk Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General John A. Gronouski today issued a final order to make the Zip code mandatory for all bulk users of second and third class mail by Jan. 1, 1967. But a House Post Office subcommittee was trying to head him off at the pass. It approved a bill Wednesday that would delay the mandatory deadline until Jan. 1, 1970.

In the identification card law is Sen. Ernest Keppeler of Sheboygan, who three years ago inspired an extensive legislative interim study of the problems of juvenile drinking which urged a uniform beer drinking age for the state. Most of the committee's findings have thus far been ignored by the lawmakers. Warren recalled that record at the hearing, and remarked that the prospects this year for stronger highway safety laws also has dimmed. The enforcement identification card rule should be the minimum contribution of the legislature this year to the problem, he thought. Several county officials and the Wisconsin County Boards Association objected to details of the bill, while conceding the faults of the present law. The sheriff should not be required to involve himself in the clerical procedures, they said, and the $5 charge might tempt some otherwise lawabiding young people to falsify applications.

Some Insurances Will Differ Under Medicare

BY SYLVIA PORTER

What should you do with your private health insurance policy when the historic "Medicare" bill, providing medical care for the elderly, financed under Social Security, becomes law? Is there any point to buying medical insurance now? How will Medicare affect your company's group medical insurance plan or your company's medical ever was. You can buy health insurance for a period of a year, a quarter or even a month. Q.: What will happen to a company's employee insurance plan? Ball: Most companies will revise their plans to avoid duplicating Medicare. Some may decide to draw up entirely new employee insurance plans providing only "extra" coverage, above and beyond what Medicare offers. Q.: How can you avoid overlapping coverage and paying extra for the duplication? Ball: Between passage of the bill and Medicare's effective date, all reputable insurance companies will review and revise their policies, coverage and charges to dovetail with Medicare.

benefits? How can you avoid duplicating coverage—and charges—by Medicare and private insurance? These are typical of the questions now pouring into my office and deluging the Social Security Administration in Washington. They dramatize the enormous confusion among the nation's 19 million over-65 citizens affected by the legislation—particularly the estimated 9 million who today own some private health insurance. To help clarify the situation, I put your key questions to Robert M. Ball, U.S. commissioner of Social Security.

Q.: Should you cancel your private health insurance? Ball: "NO. Neither Medicare's hospital insurance plan nor the voluntary plan for doctor bills, psychiatric care, home health services, etc., would go into effect for at least a year. Under the Senate version of the bill, the doctor insurance part wouldn't go into effect until January 1967. When the bill becomes law, you should wait to see how your insurance company revises its health coverage. Obviously, no reputable company is going to offer a policy duplicating Medicare.

Q.: What if you're under 65? Ball: No one under 65 should cancel his private health insurance because of Medicare. The law will not apply to the under-65s. Q.: Is there any point to buying private insurance now? Ball: As much point as there

Q.: What should you do now about health insurance? Ball: If you are nearing 65 or if you are over 65 and still haven't filed a claim for Social Security benefits because you are still working, contact your Social Security office now about the procedure you should follow. The significant point is that you will be eligible for Medicare if you are 65 or over, regardless of whether or not you are working and no matter what the level of your earnings. If you are already receiving a Social Security paycheck, you will automatically receive full information and a Medicare identification card in the months following passage of the bill and you will automatically become eligible for benefits.

Q.: What about the supplementary, voluntary plan? Ball: For the supplementary, voluntary doctor-insurance plan under Medicare, a specific "enrollment period" will be announced when the bill becomes law. Under the bill you would pay $3 a month for this coverage to be matched by federal funds. If you are 65 or over or will reach 65 this year and you want this extra coverage, you should enroll during this period.

State Probes False Identity Card Issue

Former District Attorney Calls For New Forgery-Proof System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—A former district attorney in Brown County Tuesday recalled his difficulties in enforcement of the laws governing minors and consumption of alcoholic beverages as he called for a forgery-proof system of identification cards for young men and women between the ages of 18 and 21.

Sen. Robert Warren of Green Bay, who served for six years as county prosecutor there, joined other witnesses before a state Senate committee in paying reluctant tribute to the ingenuity and the persistence of young persons in fabricating false identity cards, falsifying applications for such cards and otherwise outwitting enforcement officials working with the present statutory rules.

One employee of a Madison beer bar near the University of Wisconsin campus dumped on the committee table a boxful of false or invalid identity cards collected on his premises during the last several months.

Support Proposal Several liquor trades representatives supported the proposal for a foolproof identification requirement, noting that bartenders and bar proprietors tend to bear the burden of the penalty when persons of illegal age are found in bars with invalid identification cards. Warren recalled that in Brown County card forgers and others have sometimes gone unpunished because the only charge on which they can be prosecuted under the present law is a felony, and prosecutors hesitate to use that weapon. The proposal for revisions includes a new schedule of special penalties, including revocation of driving licenses for violations. The new cards would be made of a special metal product that could not be altered. It would be imprinted at the state prison metal shop, and issued by the county sheriff as the principal local law enforcement official. The state beverage tax division would be the central administrative agency and would be required to maintain a central file on all card holders. The present cards are issued by registers of deeds, and are made of laminated paper. Easy to Forge That they are easy to forge has been a commonplace among enforcement officers for years. There is now no count of the card totals issued in the counties, but the maximum number in the state, if all persons in the age bracket 18 through 20 would apply, would be about 300,000. One woman told the committee that there is an extensive black market in well-executed card forgeries, and that she had proved it by having her 15-year-old yard boy buy three fraudulent cards at a price of $5 each, three for $10. Because of the extra cost of materials and administration of the new cards as proposed, the charge to applicants would be $5 by the state. The typical charge is now $1. Mrs. Lucey Attends White House Event

Mrs. Patrick J. Lucey, wife of Wisconsin's lieutenant governor, joined wives of state governors and other distinguished citizens at a White House kick-off meeting for "Project Head Start" Wednesday. Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson invited Mrs. Lucey to attend the meeting when Mrs. Warren P. Knowles was unable to attend because of scheduling conflicts.

The meeting was held in the Jacqueline Kennedy Garden at the White House at 1 p.m.

"Project Head Start" is part of President Johnson's Poverty Program. Its goal is to put thousands of women volunteers to work preparing underprivileged young children to enter school. This advance training will help these children adjust to school work and will alleviate the problems of slow learning and school dropouts which are acute in some areas of the country.

Beach Allure

There's more to looking like a mermaid in a bathing suit than having a good figure and a sleek turnout. As at no other time, gracefulness keys allure.

To appear Neptune's own daughter, follow these pointers:

1. When standing, stretch tall and be sure to draw derriere down and waist up. Also keep feet and legs in close formation.
2. For willow grace when walking barefooted, do as ballet dancers do—let toes come to ground a split second before heel and, with each step, extend ankle fully.

3. To take a seated position on the ground, keep knees together and bend them slightly. Then slowly drop right knee to ground; follow up at once with left knee. Now shift your weight to right and let gravity take over. That way, there's no plopping down and no scrambling to arrange legs thereafter.
4. While seated, hold spine erect. No slumping! 5. If you stretch out to sun, assume same pulled-together posture as when standing. 6. Rise from ground by reversing actions taken when going down. 7. At all times keep arms and hands relaxed. Let them fall at your sides when you stand or walk. While seated, rest hands in lap. Cradle head in hands when you lie face down; keep arms close to sides when you lie back down.

After a few tryouts at home, you'll be able to maneuver on the outdoor scene with the grace of a charmer.

Independence Day

All-American Picnic Holiday

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

There's no other holiday as American as July 4 . . . Independence Day. It's been a special day for a long, long time that goes back to 1776 in Philadelphia. It's a day marked by fireworks and special dinners or picnics.

For years in New England the traditional dinner has been baked salmon and new green peas. In the Southwest it's barbecued chicken roasted in a heavy brown paper bag to keep the sauce around the bird.

In the Midwest the family reunion and picnic dinner is traditional with a bountiful table or tables laden with several kinds of meat, a variety of salads, ice cream and cake. Wherever strawberries are ripe, the fruited shortcake is the specialty of the big day.

With the advent of barbecue equipment of all sizes and shapes, the July 4 meal has taken its own independent bent according to family tastes and budgets. The kabob is one form of popular outdoor meal because it's attractive, easy to eat in its bite-sized pieces and fun to concoct. With the new rotisserie cookers, the hooded kettle-types and barbecues equipped with revolving spits, a roast or large fowl is not difficult to prepare.

Steaks of all kinds, ranging from the ever popular hamburger to tenderized economy cuts to thick lamb slices make excellent barbecue fare. Blue cheese can provide a savory topping . . . and thus flavorful, easily melted cheese gives a lift to fish and poultry, too. Other cookout favorites in this particular area are the sausages, smokie links and bratwurst . . . frankfurters and plain pork links.

If kabobs are in order, children enjoy making these. Here are a few tips to make the cooking go smoothly.

Cut foods so that each piece is about the same size. Prepare ahead of time and store in refrigerator until barbecuing time. This means the vegetables should be parboiled so everything will be done at the same time.

Arrange the foods alternately on skewers for appetite and eye appeal. Firm foods should be placed on the ends to hold other chunks in place.

Green pepper squares are less likely to split and fall off if a hole is made with a knife large enough for the skewer.

So here they are in wide variety, a creditable roster of recipes for a HAPPY HOLIDAY.

SAUCE FOR LAMB STEAKS
1 tablespoon instant minced green onion
3 tablespoons cold water
¼ cup tarragon vinegar
½ cup salad oil
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon basil
½ teaspoon coarse black pepper
1 cup dry sherry
lamb steaks

Combine green onion and water, let stand until water is absorbed. Combine with remaining ingredients, pour over lamb steaks. Let stand several hours or overnight in refrigerator. Bring to room temperature, drain well.

Grill steaks over wood charcoal briquets 20 to 30 minutes, turning frequently and basting with the sauce.

DANISH STEAK BARBECUE
4 individual club steaks,
1 inch thick
Coarsely ground black pepper
8-ounces Danish Blue Cheese, crumbled

Season steaks with pepper; combine green onion and water, let stand until water is absorbed. Combine with remaining ingredients, pour over lamb steaks. Let stand several hours or overnight in refrigerator. Bring to room temperature, drain well.

Every man likes the hearty flavor of a beef pot roast. The wise homemaker keeps making it even during summer, but beats the heat by barbecuing it outdoors. It's easy when instant meat marmade is used. To follow through, put fresh vegetables in foil packets and cook them along with the meat to delicious perfection. The finished roast is shown above.

Here's a station wagon wayside or park picnic special at the left, for the family on the go. Wrapped in foil these Chip 'n' Cheese Links can be toted along with portable grill and bag of charcoal briquets. They're just as good at home of course for both indoor and outdoor dining.

3 zucchini
1 small eggplant
1 green pepper
2 (8-oz) cans tomato sauce with mushrooms
½ cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon dry mustard
Cut meat and vegetables in one-inch chunks. Cook vegetables in salted boiling water about five minutes. Alternate with meat on six metal skewers. Combine sauce ingredients and simmer five minutes. Place skewers on barbecue four inches from fire. Cook for about 20 minutes, turning occasionally and basting with sauce. Serve extra sauce with kabobs. Instead of using eggplant and zucchini, try onions and tomatoes. Turn to Page 15, Col. 1

1-teaspoon thyme
1-ounce Danish blue cheese, in 6 pieces
6-hamburger buns
Combine beef, pepper, Worcestershire and thyme and blend well. Divide into six portions. Mold each portion lightly around a piece of cheese. Grill three inches from coals, about three to five minutes each side to desired degree of doneness. Split and toast the hamburger buns on the edges of the grill. Recipe makes six king-sized servings.

GRILL FISH STEAKS
4-fish steaks about 8 ounces each
¼-cup salad oil
Black pepper
Lemon juice
1-cup crumbled blue cheese
Brush the steaks with oil. Sprinkle with pepper and lemon juice. Cover grill with foil, lay fish on foil. Grill three inches from coals, 10 minutes. Turn the steaks. Sprinkle grilled side with crumbled cheese, cook 10 minutes longer. Recipe makes four servings.

A wine and herb marmade lends its delicate touch to the thick lamb steaks shown on the hooded grill above, while in the lower picture tangy Danish blue cheese melts fragrantly on charcoal grilled steaks. No other seasoning is needed for the blue cheese fixin's. This makes a superb topping for hamburgers, too, as well as grilled poultry or fish.

Your Problems

Mixed-Up Parents Say Teen's Broken Romance a Tragedy

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our beautiful 17-year-old daughter is in the bedroom sobbing her heart out. Her steady boy friend, Artie, told her this afternoon that he wants his ring and picture back. He didn't give any reason — just that he wants to date other girls and spend more time on athletics.

Do you know what it's like to hear a 17-year-old say she doesn't want to go on living? She hardly touched her dinner tonight and her eyes look like red coals. When she was telling us about her tragedy both my husband and I broke down and wept. Please say something to give us all courage. — Empty Hearts

Dear Empty: If this is a tragedy I'm a belly dancer in a Kootch joint. High School kids break up by the thousands every day. Pictures, rings, sweaters, pins and bracelets are shot back and forth like ping pong balls.

Instead of weeping with your daughter you should have told her that the cry baby who folds like an accordion when things don't go her way is in for a rough time.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you said many people who want replies in the mail enclose envelopes which they address to Ann Landers instead of to themselves. You expressed surprise that so many people make this mistake. Why? Don't you know the average American is a moron? I've worked in our city hall for 20 years and nothing surprises me anymore.

One woman who filled out a form for a driver's license

recently wrote, after the word sex, "occasionally."

Then there are the old crows who knock 40 pounds off their weight and 10 years off their age when they fill out forms. Who do they think they are kidding? Last week a motherly type with snow white tresses put down "red" to describe her hair color. When I called the error to her attention she said, "I'm having it dyed tomorrow."

You, Ann Landers, should know that people can be awfully nutty. — Old Timer

Dear Old Timer: People can also be awfully warm-hearted, generous, heroic and unbelievably kind.

And since you work in city hall please pass the word to someone higher up that some of those goofy forms are worded in such confusing language that Einstein would need help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was delighted when you told that daughter-in-law it was up to her to write to her husband's mother. I didn't realize how much my cards meant to my mother-in-law until last Christmas. When we visited her she took out a huge bundle of cards which she had saved over the years.

Sandwiched in among my own were cards written by the children. There was one scrawled by our daughter when she was 10, written in the beauty shop while she waited to have her pigtail cut off. And there was a card from our son written from the dog and cat hospital. His little dog "Mr. Jones" had been struck by a car and he had just received word that "Mr. Jones" is going to be O.K.

We had a good laugh over the card we had mailed while driving through Paris, Texas. We sent it as a gag, hoping Grandma would think we were in France.

Our "too-Busy-To-Write Daddy" was touched by my consideration for his mother. I'm sure he appreciates me just a little more. — Patty Dear Patty: It's like I said — writing to a mother-in-law comes under the heading of being a good wife. You do it as much for your husband as for his mother. Cheers!

West took the first trick with the king of clubs and then shifted to the nine of spades. South showed that he was an alarmist in world politics; he pounced on the trick with dummy's ace of spades.

South got to his hand with the queen of diamonds to ruff his other club in dummy and then led out the king and queen of trumps. When the trumps failed to break favorably, South had to switch to diamonds.

East had studied world conditions more carefully than declarer and was therefore in no hurry to take his trump trick. He discarded a club on the third round of diamonds and carefully ruffed the fourth diamond.

Irish Casserole Perfect for Patio Brunch

Bacon and Cheese Panada is the perfect dish to serve at patio brunches. This intriguing old Irish casserole combines bacon, eggs, cheese and soup. It's actually easier to prepare than scrambled eggs.

It makes no difference if there are two guests or 20 because cooking panada in quantity is no chore. Neither is the clean-up, when the panada and accompanying hot Herbed French Bread and an avocado salad all are served on plastic-coated paper plates along with steaming hot coffee in plastic-lined paper cups.

Here's the menu for good eating.

BACON AND CHEESE PANADA

6 slices bacon, cut in half
3 eggs
1 can (10½ ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1 soup can milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese (½ pound)
1½ cups dry bread crumbs

Partially fry bacon slices and drain on paper towel. Beat eggs with soup, milk, salt and pepper. Fold in cheese and bread crumbs. Pour into greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Ten minutes before casserole is done, arrange bacon slices on top. Recipe makes six servings.

FRUIT SALAD

Arrange grapefruit and orange sections and avocado slices in an attractive pattern on crisp lettuce. Garnish with a fresh strawberry or maraschino cherry, if desired. Serve with French dressing.

HERBED FRENCH BREAD SLICES

Cut French bread into slices 1-inch thick. Spread with softened butter or margarine, sprinkle with mixed herbs or seasoned salt. Place on baking sheet and toast in 350-degree oven (350 degrees F.) for 10 to 15 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Pour marinade over meat in shallow pan. Pierce all surfaces of meat, both sides, thoroughly with fork. Marinate only 15 minutes, turning several times.

Remove meat from marinade; drain. Barbecue three to four inches above hot coals (gray, shot with a ruddy glow), 30 to 35 minutes for rare. During cooking, turn and brush frequently with marinade.

Parboil carrots, onions and green pepper in water to cover about five minutes; drain. Place on large square of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Season to taste with salt, pepper and butter. Bring up lengthwise sides of the foil and seal with a double fold. Doublefold ends of foil upward.

Be sure packet is securely sealed. Cook on grill, a total of 15 to 20 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. If desired, divide vegetables into six individual packets.

CHIP 'N' CHEESE SMOKE LINKS

1 pound smoke links
1-cup grated process American cheese
½ cup crushed potato chips
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Slit links lengthwise to form pockets. Mix remaining ingredients together until well blended. Stuff the pockets. Wrap each link in heavy duty foil. Grill 12 to 15 minutes over coals after they have turned gray. Recipe makes about eight individual servings.

Note: If bratwurst links are used, it is an excellent idea to parboil them first to rid them of excess grease before broiling over coals or in packets prepared in the above chip 'n' cheese manner. Many outdoor eating enthusiasts parboil brats in beer before broiling; this gives them an excellent flavor.

Also, the parboil in any form of liquid keeps the smoke nuisance down and keeps odor and fat flames to a minimum.

Stores to Close
July 5, Extend Hours Tuesday

Government Offices, Area Industries
To Mark Holiday

Government offices and stores will close Monday in observance of the Fourth of July holiday. Monday is the legal holiday this year because Independence Day falls on Sunday.

Stores will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, according to Appleton Chamber of Commerce officials, because the legal holiday eliminates the Monday night store hours.

Many factories in the area also will shut down Monday, according to a representative survey taken by The Post-Crescent.

Among those closing Monday will be Fox River Tractor Co., the Kimberly Mill of Kimberly Clark Corp., Appleton Coated Paper Co., and Scolding Locks Corp.

A Week Off

Several industries will shut down all next week or longer for annual vacations for their employees.

Badger Northland, Inc., Kaukauna will close for the entire week, while Zwicker Knitting Mills will shut down July 3-12, with only a few departments working.

Most plants, however, will open again on Tuesday, after a vacation of one, two or three days depending on whether work is normally done on Saturday or Sunday.

According to officials of the Appleton Post Office, there will be no mail delivery, either local or rural, and service windows will be closed Monday.

Holiday collection dispatch service, regular special delivery and postal box service will be provided as usual.

Driver Thrown From
Motorcycle in Collision With Car

A motorcyclist tossed from his machine when it was struck by a car, is in Appleton Memorial Hospital for treatment of leg and shoulder injuries. The accident occurred on N. Richmond Street at W. Wisconsin Avenue about 7:30 a.m. today.

Injured was David J. Ganzen, 18, 1511 N. McDonald St. He was going west on Wisconsin Avenue when his motorcycle was struck by a car being driven by Verlyn D. Ferg, 39, 513 N. Bridge St., Manawa. Police said Ferg was attempting to turn onto Richmond and said he did not see the motorbike. Ganzen was taken to the hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service.

1965 School Census

Kimberly's Pre-School Population Shows Drop

KIMBERLY — School census figures compiled by Wayne Hull, census taker, reveal a decrease in the number of students under five years of age compared to last year's total, while all other brackets in the school age continue to show an increase.

A survey of the district shows 229 children less than one-year-old, an increase of 11 over last year, while those listed as one year amount to 282 compared to 342 the previous year. Both years show 341 two-year-olds while the number of three-year olds declined from 381 to 359 and the four-year-olds declined from 386 to 375. Thus the pre-school age census shows 1,586 students under five or 82 less than the 1,668 counted last summer.

The kindergarten through sixth age groups, five through 11, shows an increase of 128 students.

Junior High School age students, 12 through 14, increased 67 to 745.

High school age students, 15 through 17, increased from 538 to 551.

Combined increase of students age 18 to 19 is 72 from 192 to 264. Grand total of youngsters in this age group this year is 5,513, an increase of 196 over last year. The total is 522 higher than the 1963 figure and 1,012 higher than the 1962.

Kimberly figures show an increase of 58, to 3,105 from last year, Combined Locks increased 100 to 1,399. Town of Buchanan increased six to 516 and Town of Harrison increased 34 to 493. Since 1962, Kimberly shows a 264 increase, Combined Locks 381, Harrison 215 and Buchanan 152.

Prange Buyer
Admits Theft of Clothing at Store

John R. Edwards, 24, 728 E. Coolidge Ave., pleaded guilty Thursday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to theft of merchandise valued at less than $100 from the H.C. Prange Co.

Edwards was arrested at the store Wednesday where he is employed as a buyer. Police were called following an investigation by store officials.

County Judge Gustave Keller ordered a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for July 16. A hearing is to be held sometime today to determine if Edwards can be released on bond. He is being held in the county jail without bond.

Police said Edwards had admitted taking two cashmere coats, a women's suit, two blouses, shirt and slacks while he worked as buyer for the store's women's department. The items were given to his wife and relatives.

Burning Rubbish
Damages Pole, Wires

A rubbish burner placed too close to a power pole was responsible for damage to the pole and wires in the 1300 block of W. Fourth Street about 3:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Firemen stood by while repairs were made to the damaged wiring.

Leo McCoy, Manager of travel service for Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah, today was the first commercial airline passenger to get off a North Central Airlines plane at the new Outagamie County airport in the Town of Greenville. Shaking hands with McCoy is County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly. Looking on at the left are Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce President Willard Johnson and Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell. Unfair Labor
Ruling Upheld
By NLRB

Trial Examiner's
Decision Approved
In Truck Firm Case

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) in Washington today upheld its trial examiner's decision which found an Appleton trucking firm guilty of unfair labor practices.

Counsel for Fox Valley Truck Service, Inc., Valley Leasing Co., Inc. and its president, John Toppins, had appealed the examiner's decision of March 22.

"The board has reviewed the rulings of the trial examiner made at the hearing and finds no prejudicial error was committed," the NLRB announced.

The NLRB said it considered all briefs and the record in the case and adopted the trial examiner's findings, conclusions and recommendations.

Unfair labor charges were brought against the trucking firms by Teamsters Local 563.

The NLRB decision found the company guilty on several counts of unfair labor practices and also cited the firm's legal counsel.

The firms were charged with intimidating and coercing employees for their union activities and refusing to bargain with Local 563, the recognized bargaining agent for the employees.

A discharged employee was ordered reinstated by the NLRB, and management ordered not to interfere with unionized employees and to bargain collectively.

Park Plan Overshadowed
By Argument About Road

Era of Expansion
To Begin at King
Groundbreaking Set Monday
For Central Service Building

KING — Groundbreaking ceremonies Monday for the new central services building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans here will begin the home's long-range development plan.

John R. Moses, director of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, made the announcement today in Madison.

Ready to start or now in the planning stage are improvements totalling twice the dollar cost of all previous buildings from the establishment of the home in 1887 to date, Moses said. Completion of the long-range plan will provide facilities for 1500 members, he stated, compared to a present membership of 515.

Main Speaker

Main speaker at the groundbreaking ceremony, set for 11 a.m. at the home, will be Assemblyman Paul R. Alfonsi, Minocqua, assistant minority leader in the assembly, who was instrumental in securing approval for the new building in 1964.

Architects for the building, are Schutte, Phillips and Mohan, Milwaukee. General contractor is Hoffman Construction Co., Appleton.

To be built at a cost of $982,000, the new central services building will provide central kitchen, laundry, bakery, meat cutting, commissary and food storage facilities to replace facilities in several old buildings scattered about the grounds.

1500 Members

Planned to accommodate the maximum membership of 1500, the new building will be connected by tunnel to other permanent buildings on the grounds for more efficient service.

The second major project and largest now scheduled will be a $2.5 million nursing building on which work is expected to start this year. Groundbreaking ceremonies for the nursing home have tentatively been set for Sept. 19.

Bellaire Residents Revive Year-Old Controversy;
Functional Plans Shown

A functional plan for developing the Bellaire Park area was overshadowed Wednesday night by revival of the year-old park road controversy.

An estimated 50 persons—the majority from the 12th Ward—attended a special park board meeting in the city hall council chambers.

Several charged the extension of Green Bay Road through the park represents a major traffic carrier and is creating a serious safety hazard, especially to children playing in the area.

General Public

The meeting was called to give the general public an opportunity to view a plan for the undeveloped park-designated area prepared by L. J. Enright, a park architect for Harland Bartholomew & Associates, St. Louis, Mo.

Enright, emphasizing the Bellaire area was fortunate in having one of the city's two only waterfronts, explained his preliminary plan. It called for:

—An elevated, turfed area along a portion of the Fox River shoreline where a series of benches would be located for those wishing to relax and enjoy the view.

—A picnic area and a small pier in the form of a 36-foot tugboat over the water for children to play and fish from.

Skating Rink

—Another picnic area to the north of the park road with a 50-car parking area at one end which could be utilized as a skating rink.

—An additional 50-car parking lot to the southeast side of the park road.

—An all-purpose building to be used as a park office-warming shelter during the cold months and art-crafts center during the summer.

—A stationary concrete locomotive and car, along with log forts, as attractions for the younger children.

—Horseshoe pit and facilities for other non-team recreational activities, and a hill for winter sledding.

Moving of Road

—Moving of the controversial park road about 50 feet to the south, but not so as to detract from the waterfront.

—Planting of shrubs, trees and flowers throughout the park area.

Enright said if the city could acquire more land to the north of the Pacific Street bridge adjacent to the proposed abutment he would suggest creation of a small lake.

He also proposed nature trails throughout the area to take advantage of the ravine's natural beauty.

Stepped Up Patrol

Enright reminded listeners the road was already in when he was contracted to prepare a plan for the park board. He suggested stepped up police patrol to orient traffic to the surrounding park environment.

When several persons leveled criticism at the proposed development because of the road location, getting into personalities, Enright told the group, "I'm making suggestions. I didn't come here to argue."

Replying to further questions, Enright said the road was not ideal and would require a considerable amount of speed law enforcement.

"The ideal situation would be to close it to thru traffic but I have been informed your city council will not go for this," Enright said. He opposed moving the road back so it skirted the waterfront.

Board President

William Wachtendonk, park board president, said the city wants to use Green Bay Road for moving traffic to and from

'Round and Round We Go . . .'

Heated Comments Mark Special Meeting on Bellaire Park Plans

Although a meeting was called to consider three plans for developing Bellaire Park, residents of the area insisted Wednesday on discussing a road through the park.

Their comments were made at a special park board meeting in city hall.

Discussion went round and round for approximately two hours. The Bellaire group of about 50 persons insisted on talking about the road, constructed by park board order last year, with the park board trying to confine comment to the proposed development plan.

"The road is there — let's talk about the plan," urged a park board official.

Wish Granted

"There's nothing to talk about then," came a retort from the audience. "You might as well adjourn the meeting."

The official did.

A landscape and park architect with the firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, Mo., had flown in to explain his plan for developing the park, but had little opportunity to do so. Few persons at the meeting studied or even looked at the proposed park plan.

During the objections, many people and institutions were flayed. The park board, common council, police department, motorists and the Post-Crescent — just to mention a few — were nominated for public disservice awards.

"Let's not get emotional about this," shouted one resident from the rear of the council chambers.

"Not Emotional"

"I'm not emotional — I'm damn mad the way this park road has been handled," replied a red-faced orator.

A suggestion by one individual proposed that, if residents feared a traffic hazard, construction of a wire fence should be considered. The plan was as welcome as the plague.

A description by one Bellaire Ravine resident about alleged moonlight happenings in his area was a takeoff on the old Wild West. He said his windows were being shot out and fires started on his property.

While there was general agreement the new road will increase traffic load through the park, there was major disagreement about the role being played by the Appleton Police Department.

Residents of the area overlooking the park indicated squad cars and patrols were as scarce, one could assume, as Hershey bars and sugar during World War II.

Complaints flowed freely on alleged speeding by motorists — and bicyclists, too.

Appleton
Residents
Hospitalized

Two Appleton residents were taken to St. Agnes Hospital, Fond du Lac, after a two-car crash at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at U.S. 41 and State 28 in Dodge County, about 20 miles south of Fond du Lac.

They are Warren S. Gillette, 57, 2220 W. Charles St., and Mrs. Eileen Hoel, 48, 2417 N. Union St.

Gillette suffered a head cut and bruises. Mrs. Hoel had a cut on the head and possible back injuries. She was admitted to the hospital, and Gillette was treated and released.

Another passenger, Steven Timmers, 2, Milwaukee, was cut on the mouth and bruised on the head.

Dodge County authorities said Gillette was traveling south on 41 when his car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Raymond A. Maetke, 47, Campbellport.

Maetke told police he had stopped for a stop sign, then pulled out onto 41 colliding with the Gillette car.

Special Council Session

Lack of Liquor Permits
Forces Firms to Close

Fourteen Appleton business places were without 1965-66 beer and liquor licenses today, prompting a special meeting of the common council at 7:30 tonight.

Several of the establishments, mostly taverns, will have to remain closed until granted licenses.

All previous licenses expired at midnight Wednesday.

City Clerk Elden Broehm said he had no authority to issue applicants new licenses until authorized to do so by the council.

Special Session

After being informed of the 14 applicants without licenses, and the fact the next regular council meeting is not until July 7, Mayor Clarence Mitchell called tonight's special session.

The only business to be transacted will be the review of beer — liquor and operators licenses.

When the council convenes it will have before it a report of the welfare-ordinance committee to approve eight applications so the firms can unlock their doors and resume business.

Varied Circumstances

Wisconsin Solon Appears at Senate Committee Hearing

WASHINGTON—Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has urged the Senate Agriculture Committee to guarantee market opportunity for dairy farmers in manufacturing milk areas by writing strong "right of access" provisions into any Class I Base bill it might recommend.

"It is possible through a base-excess plan... to erect almost insurmountable barriers to entry of milk into fluid milk markets under federal orders and to greatly inhibit the economic movement of milk between federal order markets," Nelson told the committee Tuesday.

"Either would be a setback for the manufacturing milk areas, particularly those in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin."

Farm Bill

Nelson's statement was presented as the committee considered the administration's omnibus farm bill, which does not contain a dairy proposal. There are reports, however, that a base-excess plan providing Class I quotas may be attached to the bill.

Nelson told the committee that base-excess plans have many limitations at best.

"But if one is recommended by this committee, it should contain strong 'right of access' provisions that would make it nondiscriminatory," Nelson said.

"The minimum safeguard that this committee should consider in any base-excess plan is the 'right of access' amendment language that was in the Proxmire bill when it passed the Senate two years ago."

Pointless Action

Nelson said it would be pointless for Congress to adopt a system of national sanitation standards guaranteeing the flow of milk across state lines on the one hand and adopt a base-excess plan that set up new economic barriers to milk marketing on the other.

He has joined Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota in sponsoring a bill to authorize the Public Health Service to establish uniform sanitation regulations that would guarantee free movement of milk across state lines.

Kiel Youth Wins $1,000 Scholarship

CHICAGO (AP) — Thomas L. Stiefvater, 21, of Kiel, Wis., has been awarded a $1,000 senior year college scholarship by International Minerals and Chemical Corp.

He will use the scholarship to continue studies in agricultural engineering at the University of Wisconsin. His father, Laurence, is a farmer.

$33 Stolen From Coin Changers in Cleaners

Coin changers in a laundromat at 1400 N. Meade St. were entered sometime Wednesday night and $33 in 50 and 25 cent pieces was taken, owner Walter Gast, 152 Washington St., Kaukauna, reported to police today.

There was no sign of forced entry into the changers, police said.

advantage of the little waterfront Appleton has to offer," Wachtendonk declared.

Fear Speeding

Several residents who said they lived in the Bellaire Park area claimed cars were racing through the park and that their pleas for action by the police department have gone unheeded. They expressed fear someone would be killed because of the heavy traffic to be drawn to and through the area, plus the alleged speeding.

While strong objections were raised concerning the road, the park plan development as such was unscathed. However, very little discussion centered on it.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), who sent notices to residents in his ward inviting them to inspect three plans and give their opinions at the meeting, was critical that only one plan was presented.

Questions Pattern

Ald. Richard Kohlbeck (15th) questioned the heavy traffic pattern the road would generate and also inquired as to what happened to the other plans.

At one point Ayers demanded the plans be brought from the park department office to the city hall to give everyone at the meeting an opportunity to make comparisons.

Park board members and the consultant explained all three sketches were basically the same.

Ayers later was reminded he attended a previous park board meeting when sketches were reviewed and park commissioners decided to elaborate on one plan for the purpose of the public presentation. They said Ayers did not object to their action then and questioned why he was doing so at the public meeting.

Running Feud

Ayers, who has had a running feud with the park board since the road controversy started last year, said he assumed all plans would be presented so explanations could be made to residents of his ward as to why one was being favored.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues refuted some claims and "rumors" about the park road. He said it was not meant to be a main transportation carrier and was designed to handle park and through traffic.

"It is nothing more than any other local street in Appleton," Bues said.

Some disagreed, giving their own traffic counts to substantiate their position.

Some residents said they were never contacted when the street was in the planning stage, while a few others who reside on the hill overlooking the park claimed they offered to work with the park board in having an orderly park development.

Upper Income

Enright said he realized the Bellaire region was comprised of upper income homes and was a nice area. "However, this can be magnified with the proposed park development which would stress simplicity and increase the value of surrounding properties," Enright commented.

The meeting adjourned on a sour note after several residents said there was no use talking about park plans if nothing was going to be done to substantially change the road and traffic pattern.

Wachtendonk said after the meeting that final plans would be prepared so the actual park improvements can be started this summer.

Girl Hurt When Road Ends, Car Continues

Janice Murphy, 18, route 1, Appleton, suffered lacerations to the forehead and nose when the car in which she was a passenger left the road at County Trunk BB and Two Mile Road in the Town of Menasha at 1:04 a.m. today.

Winnebago County sheriff's officers said the car driven by Paul C. Bagstad, 18, 110 W. Oklahoma St., traveling south on Two Mile Road in Outagamie County, failed to stop for the sign at BB and crossed the road, ending up in the ditch in Winnebago County. Bagstad's vehicle received $250 damage to the front end and windshield.

WSU-O Says Accounting Improved

OSHKOSH — Improvements in the accounting records and procedures at Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh, were made when the audit was made, Dr. James F. Duncan, vice president of WSU-O, said today.

The state audit report for the year ending Wednesday criticized the university for some of its procedures, including failing to deposit money in the state treasury at least once a week, not reconciling bank statements against accounts, having incomplete records on dormitory operations, and failing to have insurance coverage of some building equipment.

Dr. Duncan said he could not comment directly on the audit which he has not seen. He said other items had been corrected prior to the occasion of the

Calumet Seeks Foster Homes For Teen-Agers

Report Big Need For Placement of Children in County

CHILTON — Calumet County Department of Public Welfare is conducting a campaign for more foster homes, particularly for teen-agers.

Department Director Florence Woelfel has the responsibility of placing children from broken homes or those homes where parents are unable to care for them.

Miss Woelfel said prime prerequisites for good foster parents are understanding and love for children and the ability to cope with problems a child may present due to previous unwholesome family life.

Eligible Couples

Those eligible to become foster parents include couples without children, couples with children who want more or middle-aged couples whose own children have left home after completing school or marrying.

Foster homes are needed for children of all ages of the Catholic and Protestant faiths and in rural and urban settings.

State law requires that all homes caring for non-related children be licensed welfare agencies. In Calumet County, the welfare department issues foster home licenses for approved homes. A home study by the department representative precedes the issuance of the license and the placement of a child.

After a child is placed the department maintains contact with the foster parents to give case work services.

Foster parents are reimbursed for the costs of board, care, clothing and medical care by the department. However, some foster parents provide a free home, and in some instances wages are paid in return for services performed by an older child.

NOTICE RESIDENTS OF APPLETON VOLUNTARY TEST BAN ON OUTSIDE BURNING

The City of Appleton requests you to voluntarily:

1. Stop all outside burning during July, August and September, 1965.
2. Collect and store all material which you usually burn outside and place on the curb for pick-up by city crews on your regular rubbish collection day every other week.
3. Cooperate during this three month "no burning" period so that the city can study the effects of this test ban and determine what steps are necessary to provide the City with an orderly and convenient way to eventually eliminate all outside burning in Appleton.

This ban is placed on a voluntary basis to avoid causing undue hardship or inconvenience; however, your cooperation and patience will be appreciated.

If for reasons of fire safety, excessive accumulation or health hazard, it is not possible to save part or all of your burnable waste material, then it is permissible to burn outside providing burning is done according to the Fire Code Regulations explained below.

EXISTING BURNING REGULATION SUMMARY

HOURS—Daily between 2:00 P.M. and 7:00 P.M.

TYPE OF BURNER: All burners shall have their sides wholly or securely closed and covered with wire screening which shall not be smaller than No. 8 (1/8 inch in diameter) wire. The wire mesh shall not be more than one inch across.

ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING BURNING REGULATIONS

- The Fire and Police Departments shall enforce the Fire Prevention Code as follows:
1. City-wide inspections will be made regularly as the burning situation demands and all complaints will be investigated. Every effort shall be made to inform the residents of Appleton of the need for and the desirability of cooperating with the voluntary test ban as well as the regulations governing outside burning.
 2. Any resident of the City found to be violating the burning ordinance will be issued a written warning for the first offense. He will be given seven days in which to correct this violation.
 3. After this seven day period has expired a reinspection will be made to determine if the resident has complied with the regulation covering his offense. No further action will be taken if he has complied. If a violation still exists and the resident has continued to burn despite the warning, then a second ticket shall be issued and appropriate action taken to prosecute the violator.
 4. A second complaint against a resident who has previously been issued a written warning shall result in his being issued a second ticket if a violation is again found to exist. This second ticket shall also result in appropriate action being taken to prosecute the offender.

No Budget Program Ready for Biennium

Legislature Seems Unconcerned Over Lack of Financial Schedule First Day of New Fiscal Period

MADISON (AP)—The 1965-67 fiscal biennium begins today, but an atmosphere of unconcern hangs over the state Legislature even though no budget or tax program has been passed.

A new round in the fiscal fight was scheduled to begin in the Assembly with the proposal by Republicans of a half dozen amendments to a Democratic $822.5 million budget bill severed from any balancing tax provisions.

With the end of the 1963-65 biennium and no new appropriations approved, state agencies will have to operate at the old spending levels.

Debate Delayed
The Assembly budget debate was postponed a day when Assembly Minority Leader Robert Hasse, R-Marquette, asked Wednesday that the bill be laid over until today to give Republicans a chance to study the 155-page document and prepare their amendments.

"In continuing the spirit of compromise, I'll not object to your motion," said Democratic Majority Leader Frank Nikolay of Abbotsford.

But he added that Democrats were "ready to pass a budget bill and meet the July 1 deadline." Democrats control the Assembly 52-48.

The Assembly reconsidered a vote killing a bill that would allow the establishment of branch banking in Wisconsin and reversed their earlier decision. The 69-31 vote was two more than needed to have the two-thirds majority required by the Constitution.

Killed Earlier
The previous day the bill had been killed 63-32 because it lacked four votes of the necessary majority.

The measure, supported by the Badger State Association of Banks, would allow banks to set up branches in their own town, village or city as long as they were not within one mile of another home office bank.

Another reconsideration vote, on a bill giving municipalities the choice of using either electronic or mechanical voting machines, failed. The Assembly voted 59-40 not to reconsider an earlier move rejecting it.

In the Senate a proposed constitutional amendment to allow the public to enact laws by initiative and referendum was defeated 17-15.

Initiative Referendum
Under provisions of the resolution, signatures from eight per cent of the state electorate would have permitted a proposed law or constitutional change to be voted on by the public.

Final legislative action was taken on a constitutional amendment that would keep debt incurred by special utility districts from being added to the debt limitation of localities in which the districts are located.

The change will be voted on in a public referendum next April. The Senate approved a bill imposing a five per cent tax on the gross receipts of closed circuit television boxing matches shown in Wisconsin. It killed a bill that would have made the sale of beer in disposable glass bottles illegal.

Manson Remains State Insurance Commissioner

MADISON (AP)—Charles Manson remained the State Commissioner of Insurance today and officials in the administration of Gov. Warren P. Knowles said no further attempts would be made to oust him.

The State Department of Administration had notified Manson that for lack of a proper extension to serve beyond the mandatory retirement age of 65, the commissioner would be removed from the state payroll at the start of the new biennium today. Manson is 66.

Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette notified Manson, however, that an extension granted by former Gov. John W. Reynolds would be effective to 1967.

Reynolds and La Follette are Democrats. Knowles is a Republican.

Manson was appointed to the $17,000 a year job in 1959 by former Gov. Gaylord Nelson, now a Democratic U.S. senator. The commissioner was re-appointed to a four-year term in 1963 and the Republican controlled senate gave its unanimous approval.

In 1964, the Legislature approved pay raises for department heads and in order to make the raises immediate it was necessary to abolish the jobs and recreate them at the higher salaries.

A clerical error dropped the extended termination date of Manson's term and the Republican senate refused to pass legislation correcting the record.

Businessmen Fight To Keep Billboards On Interstate 94

MADISON (AP)—Businessmen along a 2-mile stretch of interstate 94 in Racine and Kenosha counties renewed their fight Wednesday for legislation that would keep the state from removing their advertising billboards.

The legislation would establish an exception to the ban Wisconsin has on interstate billboards and apply it to locations where the interstate road was placed on existing divided highway right-of-way. The interstate modernization of U.S. 41 in Racine and Kenosha counties would be the only location applicable.

Robert Ruark, Columnist, Dies in London

Africa Main Topic of Work by American Living in Europe

LONDON (AP)—Robert Ruark, the American columnist and author of best-selling novels, died early today in London's Middlesex Hospital. He was 49. The hospital said Ruark was admitted with internal bleeding. "This did not respond to treatment and he died early this morning," the hospital said.

It did not elaborate. The writer had suffered from a liver ailment in recent years.

Ruark visited New York about six weeks ago to deliver the manuscript of a new novel "The Honey Badgers." Publication was expected in the fall.

In recent years Ruark lived abroad. He had homes in London and Spain and wrote extensively about Africa. Among his best-sellers were "Uhuru," a novel of African independence, and "Something of Value," concerning African terrorist activities in Kenya.

Columnist, Traveler
A columnist for the Scripps Howard Newspapers and the United Feature Service, Ruark traveled 100,000 to 150,000 miles a year. He turned out more than 1,000 magazine articles and a score of books.

Several years ago he told an interviewer: "Everything I saw that I wanted I chased; everything I chased I caught; everything I caught I enjoyed."

"But my life is a matter of giving too. Everything I got, I gave something of myself first to get."

Ruark was born in Wilmington and later lived in Southport, N.C. He attended the University of North Carolina and was graduated at 19.

Fired from WPA
After graduation, Ruark took a job as an accountant for the Work Projects Administration but was fired. He became a merchant marine seaman, then worked as a newspaperman until World War II. During the war he commanded a Navy gun crew on a freighter.

After the war he returned to newspaper work and in six months advanced from $125 a week to $50,000 a year as a columnist.

Ruark was married in 1938 to Virginia Webb. They were divorced several years ago and Mrs. Ruark now lives in New York. They had no children.

Similar to Senate Bill

Modified Rent Supplement Plan Survives Close Vote in House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A housing bill containing a modified version of President Johnson's rent supplement plan headed for comparatively easy going in the Senate today after one of the closest votes in the House on any Johnson administration proposal.

The controversial portion of the $5.3-billion measure — the provision for subsidizing rent of low income families — survived a 208-202 vote in the House Wednesday only after the Democrats handling it had drastically modified it from the original administration conception of a program for families above the actual needy level.

As the House finally passed it, on a 245-169 roll call vote, the bill closely resembles legislation already approved by the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate version carries a somewhat higher price tag, but estimates of the ultimate cost of a four-year program embracing grants, loans and loan guarantees are imprecise.

Under the House bill, $150 million would be provided over the next four years for rent supplements to families who could qualify for — but do not live in — low cost public housing. Regulations on income ceilings for families qualifying for such public housing now vary from city to city.

The help would go only to the needy whose rent exceeds 25 per cent of the family income and who live in housing owned by nonprofit or limited dividend organizations. None of the supplements would go to tenants of private landlords.

President Johnson praised approval of the bill as an historic step. He said the provision for rent supplements will provide new homes for hundreds of thousands "condemned to slums." And he said it would give incentive to private industry.

Home Loan Provision
In addition to the controversial rent supplement provision, the House bill contains a novel no-down-payment Federal Housing Administration home loan section benefiting peacetime veterans.

It also has mortgage insurance for land development, aid for needy owners of slum property to upgrade their housing and grants for neighborhood facilities, parks and playgrounds.

The bill also contains provisions to continue programs such as FHA, slum clearance and college dormitory construction.

Compromise Reached On Warnings for Cigarette Packages
WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional compromise was reached today on legislation to require warnings against cigarette smoking.

Under it all cigarette packages and cartons must carry this label in a conspicuous position: "Caution: Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

The compromise bars the Federal Trade Commission from requiring any warning in advertising earlier than July 1, 1969. Congress may take another look at the matter before that date.

A Senate-House committee worked out the compromise from differing bills passed by the two branches of Congress. Its decisions are subject to ratification by the Senate and House.

Federal Court Enjoins Jackson, Miss., From Enforcing Parade Ban Civil Rights Demonstrators Still Face Arrest for March on Capitol

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A federal appeals court has struck down city ordinances banning parades without permits but civil rights demonstrators here still face arrest if they march on the state Capitol.

The Capitol has been the main target of the largely Negro demonstrations here for three weeks. Nearly 1,000 have been arrested.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans issued an injunction Wednesday halting enforcement of three Jackson ordinances dealing with public parades and distribution of handbills.

"We'll abide by the court order," said M. B. Pierce, chief of detectives, who had led the police force's "instant arrest" squads.

More Arrests
Although the city technically didn't have to obey the appellate court action until it received formal notice, the police radio network told officers to end arrests under the three city ordinances shortly after court acted in New Orleans.

Eighteen more demonstrators were arrested Wednesday, however. They were jailed under a recently passed state law forbidding demonstrations on the state Capitol, at the governor's mansion and the old capitol building.

The 18 marched to the Capitol, sat down on the front steps, and demanded to speak with Gov. Paul B. Johnson.

The civil rights forces have aimed their demonstrations at the special legislative session called by Johnson to change voting statutes.

Negro leaders claim the proposed changes are attempts to thwart the voting rights bill pending in Congress.

The controversial plan to relax voting requirements won its last major test in the House Wednesday when it mustered the needed two-thirds majority on its second floor appearance.

The Senate has already approved the voting law changes. But the House version left the door open for the state to tighten its voter requirements at a later date.

"We have provided the basis for long-range planning where-by this state may again raise our voting standards," said Chairman Irby Turner of the House Constitution Committee. "I hope this state will look down the road past these turbulent times to when we can again have a qualified electorate."

Negro leaders apparently had no plans for largescale demonstrations despite the appeals court action. A civil rights spokesman said 200 workers were "too busy doing vote registration work to recruit more demonstrators."

Finance Unit Okays Fair Housing Bill

MADISON (AP)—The Joint Finance Committee has recommended for passage a bipartisan fair housing bill that already has been given preliminary approval by the Assembly.

The Democratic-controlled committee voted 10-2 Wednesday in favor of the proposal. It had been referred to the committee because it would need $49,535 in state financing during the next two years.

The bill would prohibit discrimination in housing operated as a business. Owner-occupied homes and apartments and rooming houses with fewer than four units would be exempt.

The committee also gave an 11-1 favorable recommendation to a bill that would provide for a $5 across the board salary increase for state employees not included under a merit pay plan. The raise would cost $1.3 million.

Community Theater Thrives in This Area

Attic's 'Great Sebastians' Cast Shows Active, Widespread Interest in Drama

BY JINGO

There's more to "community theater" than simply a handy label for an activity originating in the community. From indications seen in the Attic Theater season premiere this week, the term "community" in this context can be a good insight into the word in its more generally accepted use.

Starting its 16th season, the Attic is, this community theater has the opportunity of drawing on quite a backlog of "places of origin" listed, from Milwaukee to DePere and as far west as Platteville.

Magnetic Power Jingo doesn't want to infer that Attic Theater is responsible for the gathering of these far-flung wayfarers, but these people's participation in this community activity uncovers evidence of the magnetic power of the community.

Some of the people, such as Lee Schoeni, have established themselves in the Fox Cities community. Lee is the director at Appleton High School, but his "on stage elsewhere" credits in "The Great Sebastians" playbill indicate that he's been active at the University of Wisconsin and with the Platteville Community Theater.

Tom Holwinski, perhaps, makes the best case for Jingo's argument. His credits list Oshkosh Community Players and the thriving Bonduel Community Theater. It isn't beyond the realm of possibility that Tom also will, at some time or other, appear in some Riverside Players cast or with the Music Theatre in DePere.

Wide Area What all of this boils down to is not so much the obvious fact that actors are a vagabond lot who will travel great distances to tread the boards as it provides evidence that our "community" has many community theaters that should achieve as much patronage as our entire "community" as they draw upon that "community" for actors.

Come and enjoy the shows — and meet your neighbors.

support. However, "The Great Sebastians" cast splits exactly in half between "old timers" and newcomers — and in the newcomers, Jingo believes, there is a story.

For some time we've been suggesting that the Fox Cities is a community that overreaches its purely geographic and political appearance. It draws to it and encompasses interested people no matter where their origin and creates something of a cosmopolitan texture.

Of the 10 "newcomers" appearing in the Attic show and for which there is some information, there are five different

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Don Grady has co-authored a sensitive, funny script for My Three Sons, in which Grady, as Robbie, matures a bit too rapidly while escorting his brother's fiancée, Sally. Repeat

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5) — The guest hero on Dr. Kildare is given a good performance by Jack Lord, but the plot weakness has the viewer brooding about why a professional football player, washed out of the sport by rheumatoid arthritis, chose surgery as his second profession Repeat

8-8:30 (Channel 11) — A jealous witch is an amusing sight when she is Elizabeth Montgomery. Bewitched follows Miss Montgomery's growing jealousy when a predatory high school reporter sets sights on her husband Dick York Repeat

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — Betty confesses to her mother she has enjoyed her dinner date with Peyton Place's minister, and Julie tells David she has accepted a job with David Schuster.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — "Conner's Hands" on Kraft Suspense Theater is a well-acted drama about a spineless pianist (Gary Lockwood), the girl he loves (Sally Kellerman) who saved his life by marrying the now respectable gangster (Don Gordon) who loves her. (COLOR)

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Defenders has the big plus of a very strong performance from Leslie Nielsen as a tough, atheistic marine sergeant who seems on the point of a nervous breakdown. He is accused of deliberately killing a recruit (Peter Duryea), and E. G. Marshall and Robert Reed are his civilian defenders at the court-martial Repeat

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Village Stompers, who can

Chester Conklin, 79, the onetime walrus-mustached Keystone Kop, poses with his bride, the former Mrs. Jane Gunther, 65, a former actress. They disclosed at their Hollywood home that they were married June 17 at the Church of Religious Science in Las Vegas. The marriage is Conklin's fourth and Mrs. Conklin's third. (AP Wirephoto)

Mexican Trip Needn't Result in Dysentery

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

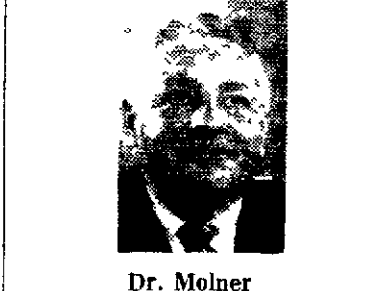

Dear Dr. Molner: I plan to take a trip to Mexico but want to avoid dysentery. What do you suggest? — Mrs. P. C.

Having a typhoid-paratyphoid vaccination is one of the most useful measures to prevent at least part of this trouble. These germs, particularly the Paratyphoid, are real troublemakers. People who live in the area permanently build up immunity; you don't have time.

The germs can be anywhere and everywhere. Drink bottled water. Avoid fresh foods (Cooking destroys the germs.) Avoid fresh fruit, wash your hands carefully, unless you wash and peel the fruit yourself. Personally I think it's easier to forget about fruit while on the trip.

Since, obviously, the germs can be in water (the reason for drinking only bottled water, which has been tested and is pure) you naturally can get germs from the water by means other than drinking it. So when you wash your hands, use soap! Then dry thoroughly.

Keep your fingers out of your mouth. If you touch something which happens to be contaminated with the germs, there's a chance of conveying them from fingers to mouth.

Use Care, But Relax Now I realize that you can't have much fun on a trip if you spend every waking moment worrying about the chance of one of these pesky germs making you miserable. Just keep the above rules in mind. I don't want to take all the fun out of travel, I just want you to stay comfortably.

Besides, you will be all right in the big hotels in the big cities. The places that are off the beaten track are where you have to be extra careful.

There's one more thing. Your physician gives you your shots (typhoid-paratyphoid, smallpox, and any others that you may need) also ask him to recommend a bottle of some anti-diarrhea medicine. There are plenty of good, effective ones to use in case you run into some of this trouble.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a woman of 45 miss a period and not be pregnant? Do you have a booklet on the change of life? — Mrs. J. B.

Yes, it's possible, because at 45 — Give or take a few years

Students are Michael Van Dyke, James Gillen and George Haas. The trio left June 20 and will return Saturday.

— some skipping of periods is probable, indicating the beginning of the menopause or change of life. And yes, I have a booklet on the subject. Send 25 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, in care of this newspaper, and ask for "Make Menopause Easier."

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like some information on removing moles on my face and arm. Many are not large but they do bother me, especially one above my upper lip. What type of doctor specializes in this and what process is used? Is it expensive? Afterward is there any scar? — K. H.

Your doctor doubtless has removed considerable numbers of moles from places that don't show much, and has done it either by simple surgery or electro-coagulation.

On the face, you are very much concerned with having a minimum of scarring, so go (a) to a dermatologist (skin specialist), or, (b) in special circumstances, to a plastic surgeon.

Your next question, at this point, will be, "Which do I go to, and where will I find him?" The answer to both questions is to ask your regular physician to refer you to the right specialist. Cost, in general, is moderate. Only occasionally will a mole be so located so as to make its removal exceptionally difficult.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume answered daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Republicans Suggest Johnson Visit DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four House Republicans who went to Paris to look into Franco-American relations reported to the House GOP conference and recommended:

1. That President Johnson go to Europe for the single purpose of visiting President Charles de Gaulle.

2. That a top-level planning conference be established by representatives of 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations to develop a plan for a fuller partnership among them.

3. That the United States re-examine its policy on technological and scientific cooperation with the idea of coordinating French and American nuclear capabilities.

4. That NATO establish a diplomatic standing group to promote unity among the member nations on nonmilitary matters.

Humphrey Trip In recommending that the House travel to Paris, the House Republicans said Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's recent call on De Gaulle was a helpful gesture, but that "a person-to-person discussion between heads of state has no adequate substitute."

Sympathetic to the feelings of De Gaulle, of France and of Western Europe.

"US military, technological, scientific and economic achievements have caused us to think of European nations as though they were in a secondary position in world affairs," the report said.

"Dissatisfaction by European nations stems from the present NATO structure which forces them to rely under all circumstances upon American strategic capabilities and decisions for the most basic requirements of their national security.

"These nations want, and of course deserve, a larger voice in these vital life-and-death decisions."

"Thus De Gaulle is not a lonely apochrysm. His policies are not apt to disappear from the world scene when he leaves office."

King Commander Improves Slightly

KING—John Drayna, commandant of the Grand Army Home for Veterans here, who has been unconscious since he was struck by a stroke, June 19, has shown slight improvement and is able to see and hear.

According to a report Wednesday from the intensive care ward of Luther Hospital, Eau Claire, Drayna was able to nod his head in answer to questions. The improvement was noticed sometime during the night Tuesday, according to a spokesman at the hospital. However, his condition is still listed as critical.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

DO WE ALL SEE OTHER PEOPLE IN DIFFERENT WAYS? YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes. You usually see those things about others in which you have a special interest and training. If the same mechanic services your car, he can usually know what kind of driver you are. Your doctor can tell a great deal about your health, your dentist about your teeth, and your clergyman about your interests in church. Each of us has our specialties of interests and abilities that enable us to see and understand certain things about others.

Are adults to blame for juvenile delinquency? Yes ☐ No ☐

Yes, in the sense that juvenile delinquency is largely a result of adult mistakes. They are also "to blame" for the adults' delinquency that caused these mistakes. To recognize that behavior is a result of what people have done, or failed to do, is wholesome. To assume that you should have known better and done better is dubious. To expect adults to be entirely wise or completely moral is unrealistic. To completely scolding and condemning adults will make them wise and moral is childish.

Why fight it? No one is getting any younger! Yet, middle age can be just as exciting and vibrant as the earlier years. "Making the Most of Your Years" is a handy booklet designed to help those approaching this time of life. To get your copy, send 25 cents and your name and address (including ZIP Code) to "Let's Explore Your Mind," to the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Bring Back an Old Craft And Make Rose Petal Beads

BY CAPPY DICK

The making of rose petals beads is an old, old craft. It's easy to try. All you have to do is grind a lot of rose petals to a pulp, let the pulp age a while and finally mold it into beads for a necklace. The beads will be black, rather than rose-colored, but they will retain the odor of roses.

Gather as many rose petals as you can. Remove them from flowers that have been picked (Figure 1) and are fading. Grind the petals to a pulp in a food grinder, first placing a dish under the grinder (Figure 2) to catch any juice that might leak out. Add the juice to the pulp and mix until the pulp is smooth.

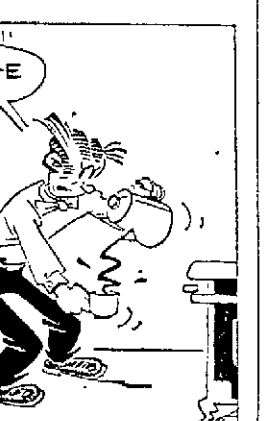

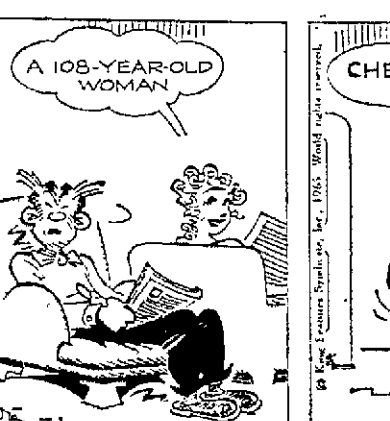

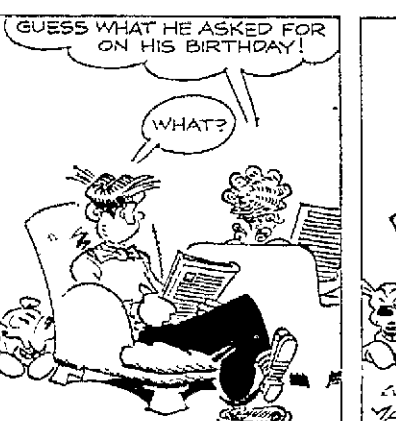

Grind the petals to pulp. The pulp too thin, leave it on the iron until some of the moisture evaporates. In this case, turn the pulp from time to time as it thickens, continuing to bring all parts into contact with the iron. When you roll the pulp into beads, stick each bead on a long pin or needle (Figure 4). After the bead has hardened slip it from the pin and it is ready to be strung.

Jeff Rushton in Semi-Finals of State Net Meet

Appleton Youth Registers Three Wins in Oshkosh

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
OSHKOSH—Appleton's Jeff Rushton advanced Wednesday to the semi-finals of the boys 18-and-under singles division of the 1965 Wisconsin Open Tennis Tournament here.

Rushton, unseeded in the tourney, won the first round by default over Schule Giles, Covington, La., when the latter failed to appear. He then whipped Terry Murphy, La Crosse, 6-1, 6-2, and topped Jeff Unger, Milwaukee, 6-4, 6-2. Unger had upset second-seeded John Brennan, Minneapolis, 6-1, 6-4. Murphy had beaten Bob Luedtke, Oshkosh, 6-3, 6-2, in the opening round.

Rushton will next meet the winner of a match between fourth-seeded James Siegel, Milwaukee, and Tim Whiting, Elm Grove.

Top-Seeded Wins
Top-seeded John Pryor of Oklahoma won his first two matches and will next meet Tom Von Kuster, Minneapolis. The winner of that match meets third-seeded John Wambold, Milwaukee, with that winner meeting the victor of the Rushton fray with either Siegel or Whiting.

Other area netters in that division lost first round matches. Pat Conway, Menasha, bowed to Unger, 6-1, 7-5; Siegel whipped Jeff Kobin, Kaukauna, 6-0, 6-0; and John Waite, Milwaukee.

Congressional Action Possible in Track Feud

Senators Deplore Gerry Lindgren Affair

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Daniel Brewster, D-Md., deploring the Gerry Lindgren affair, have raised the possibility of Congressional intervention in the continuing feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

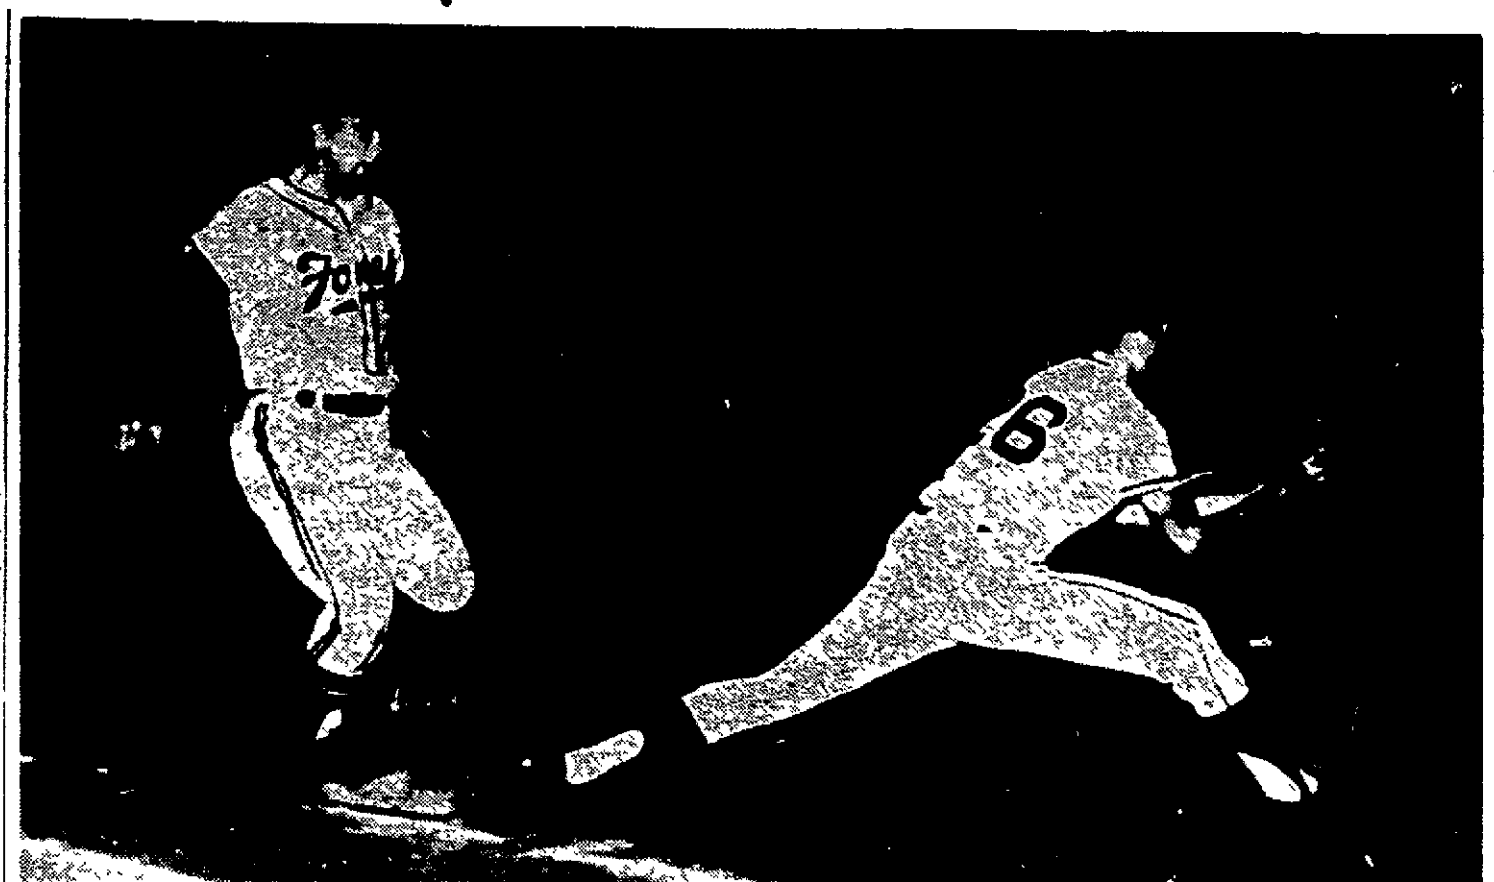

Lindgren, a Washington State University freshman, defied an NCAA ban last weekend by competing in the National AAU Championships at San Diego, possibly risking his collegiate track career.

Ringo and Gros Sign Eagle Pacts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Center Jim Ringo and fullback Earl Gros have signed 1965 contracts with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Ringo and Gros came to the Eagles in the spring of 1964, from Green Bay in a trade for linebacker Leroy Caffey and a draft choice.

This will be Ringo's 13th NFL season and Gros' fourth. The offensive center has started in 214 straight games. Gros averaged 4.9 yards, gaining 748 yards on 154 carriers last season.

Bouton Breaks Loss Streak As Yanks Edge Orioles, 5-4

Senators Beat Indians; Chisox Lose Twin Bill

BY MURRAY CHASS
If Jim Bouton has been having fun until now, he may go into ecstasy the rest of the season.
That is, if his latest outing is any indication of what is to come.

Bouton, right-handed ace of the New York Yankees' pitching staff the past two years, ended nearly two months of puzzling frustration Wednesday night as the Yankees edged Baltimore 5-4.

The victory was the first since May 8 for Bouton, who said before the season started:

"I'd like to win 20. I would have won 20 last year if I hadn't reported late. I wasn't ready when the season started. I know I'll be ready this year. It's going to be a lot more fun."

But something happened to the 29-year-old hurler after he brought his record to 3-2 May 8. He lost five straight before beating the Orioles, and even then he needed late-inning relief help from Steve Hamilton and Pedro Ramos.

Completes 2 Starts
Bouton now has a 4-7 record with a 5.06 earned run average. He has completed only two of 16 starts.

All this after an early contract settlement with the Yankees enabled him to report to spring training early for the first time since his rookie season of 1962.

In other American League games Washington nipped Cleveland 2-1, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Chicago.

Sagging Braves Collect Only Five Hits in 3-2 Loss to Philadelphia

Blasingame Slugs Homer; Phils Now Tied for Fifth

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Braves collected only five hits, one of them a homer by pitcher Wade Blasingame, and lost to the Phils, 3-2, Wednesday night for their fifth setback in their last six games.

The victory moved Philadelphia into a virtual tie with Milwaukee for fifth place in the National League.

The deciding blow was Tony Taylor's seventh inning single, which drove in Bobby Wine with the lead run.

Blasingame, the loser, hit his first homer of the season in the same inning to tie the score.

Wagner Winner
Gary Wagner, who relieved starter Jim Bunning in the sixth when the big righthander complained of an ankle injury, got credit for his third victory in five decisions.

The Phils scored in the first inning on a walk to Taylor, Cookie Rojas' sacrifice and Johnny Callison's single.

The Phils regained the lead in the sixth when Rojas doubled

Wednesday night. The hit was one of four singles by Lutz in the twin bill. The Foxes won the second game, 7-2, after dropping the first by the same score. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Packer-Giant Tickets Are Put on Sale

Tickets for the fifth annual Bishop's Charities football game between the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants are now on sale.

Approximately 31,000 tickets for the Aug. 14 contest in City Stadium have already been claimed by season ticket holders. This constitutes the largest advance sale in the series history, according to Green Bay's Gene Sladky, ticket chairman.

The last three Bishop's Charities games have been sell-outs. The stadium capacity is being increased by about 8,000 to around 50,000.

Tickets for public sale have been allocated to cities throughout northeastern Wisconsin. Among the areas are Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, with John Spalding as ticket director; Kaukauna-Kimberly area, Art Mongin; Shawano-Clintonville area, Dr. Bernard Scanlan; Chilton-New Holstein area, Vince Reinkober; and Oshkosh area, Dr. Eugene Sonnenleiner.

Tickets are also available in the Packer office, at the Stadium.

Georgia Solon Raps Handling Of Braves' Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The county commissioners who have kept the Braves in Milwaukee and prevent their shift this year to Atlanta have done a disservice to baseball and "this high-handed conduct will effectively kill major league sports in Milwaukee," Rep. Charles L. Weltner, D-Ga., said Wednesday.

He told the House that the National League realized the potential in Atlanta and meant to bring big league baseball there this year.

However, he added, the Braves have been forced to remain in Milwaukee for "an unwanted, unprofitable and unpleasant year."

"An irate group of county commissioners has chosen to ignore public interests and set out to scare the wits out of organized baseball," Weltner said.

2,103 Watch Foxes Split Doubleheader

Fitzgerald Halts Angels In Nightcap

BY TERRY GALVIN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Six innings of near-perfect pitching by Emmanuel (Boo-Jack) Fitzgerald and the ever-present, able assistance of reliever Duane Janne in the seventh late Wednesday night enabled the Fox Cities Foxes to split a pair of 7-2 Midwest League decisions with the Quad Cities Angels at Goodland Field.

The two teams vie again at 8 p.m. today in the rubber game of the 3-game series.

Foxes' pilot Billy DeMars has nominated Steve Herman, a righthander with a 4-3 mark, for the starting mound chores. Two Little League all-star games, featuring Menasha and Appleton players, will start the evening's program. The first game begins at 6 p.m.

After the Foxes dropped the opener, the Northside Advancedment Association Booster crowd of 2,103 watched in amazement as Boo's rising fast balls and sharp-breaking curves completely stymied the visitors for six frames.

Provides Key Blow
Ron Perez provided the key blow offensively in the nightcap victory, orbiting the last of loser Bill Harrelson's pitches over the 360-foot mark in left field with two mates aboard.

Fitzgerald breezed through the first three frames in perfect fashion, striking out five in the process. With two out in the fourth, the parent Los Angeles Angels' No. 1 draft pick, Jim Spencer, became the first Quad City baserunner with a hard single through the hole at second. Boo walked the next batter, but retired the side on a fly to Ray Wolkowski in right field.

Fitz breezed through the fifth

Rankin Smith Pays Alleged $9 Million As AFL Bows Out

BY PIET BENNETT

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Taking its first step into the eager Southeast, the National Football League awarded a franchise to an Atlanta businessman Wednesday and then defeated the American Football League for playing rights to the city's new 58,000-seat stadium. Atlanta's team will begin play in 1966.
Rankin M. Smith, 39, executive vice president of Life Insurance Co. of Georgia, was awarded the franchise for an estimated $9 million. Smith did not announce an exact figure.

Aged Rookie Helps Dodgers Split With Cubs

Chicagoans Win Opener but Fall in 4-3 Nightcap Verdict

BY JIM HACKLEMAN

It took Don LeJohn 12 seasons to make the big time. He's acting as if he means to stay.

The 31-year-old third baseman became the Los Angeles Dodgers' newest rookie Wednesday and promptly sparked the National League leaders to a victory.

LeJohn smacked a run-scoring single in his very first major league at-bat, then singled again in his second trip and scored the clinching run as the Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs 4-3 for a split of their doubleheader. Chicago took the opener 4-1 with four runs in the seventh inning.

LeJohn, a player-coach for Albuquerque in the Texas League with a .391 batting avering rights to the stadium on a 10-year lease. Smith offered 10 per cent of the gross admissions while the AFL franchise holder, Cox Broadcasting Corp., offered eight per cent.

While gaining a decisive victory in Atlanta, the NFL also managed to keep its rival from obtaining playing rights to Philadelphia's planned $25 million stadium.

AFL By 1967?

However, under a compromise agreement between the NFL Eagles and the city, the AFL obtained playing rights to the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field and could field a team there by 1967 when the new stadium will be completed.

Lamar Hunt, a member of the younger league's expansion committee, said he expected the league to delay a decision about

Foxes Divide Doubleheader With Angels

Inning, notching his sixth and seventh whiffs on the way. He walked reliever Ernie Millus in the next inning, but another strikeout and double play actually retired the side in order.

Garnered A Pair

Meanwhile, the Foxes garnered a pair of runs in the fourth off Harrelson on walks to Perez and Fitzgerald, a double to the right field corner by Ken Gay and Dick Hickerson's sacrifice fly.

In the fifth inning, Bob Connolly and Woitkowski opened with walks after Jim Rouse fanned. Perez' long drive over the wall in left chased Harrelson to the showers on the short end of a 5-0 tally.

The Foxes hiked the margin to 7-0 when Jerry Harmon walked and scored on Connolly's double to the right field wall. The latter crossed the plate on Woitkowski's line single to center.

Fitzgerald ran amuck (tired or stiffened up a little while his mates were pouring it on) in the top of the seventh. Spencer walked and Harry King singled to center. Fitz then issued a free trip to Clyde Wright before DeMars called for Janne with no outs.

Walks First Man

Janne walked the first man he faced, forcing in a run, but a quick double play, which pushed across the second run, and a strikeout ended the game.

The formidable twosome limited the Angels to just two hits. Fitz finished with eight strikeouts and four walks, while Janne broke even with one of each.

The first game of the twin-nighter was all Quad Cities' as the invaders scored once in the first and four more times in the third for a 5-0 lead.

Three walks off Foxes' starter and loser Ted Miller started the Angels' fourth. Spencer greeted reliever Derrel Wilkerson with a 2-run single and Jarvis Tatum followed with a run-producing safety. The fourth run crossed the plate on Steve Enos' sacrifice fly.

The Foxes managed a single run in the fourth on singles by Harmon, Rouse and Woitkowski, but Perez fanned and Pat Lutz fled to left to stifle further scoring.

Woitkowski Homers
After the Angels tallied twice in the seventh for a 7-1 lead, Ray Woitkowski socked a 345-foot shot over the left field barrier to conclude the scoring with the Foxes on the short end on the first of two 7-2 decisions. Fortunately, however, the second game was a complete reversal.

Catcher Pat Lutz led the Fox Cities representatives with four hits in five trips in the two games. Woitkowski and Ken Gay chipped in with 3-for-6 each.

Defensively, Jerry Harmon was superb at short (as usual) and rightfielder Woitkowski also came up with a pair of spectacular grabs. The latter robbed Spencer of extra-base knocks in both games, despite a run-in with the wall in the first encounter.

Sox' Ailing Lopez Hospital Patient

KANSAS CITY (AP) Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox was hospitalized overnight with enteritis, an inflammation of the intestines, and might not be able to rejoin the club today for its trip to Los Angeles.

A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital said the 56-year-old veteran manager was in satisfactory condition. He is under the care of Dr. John McDonnell, a Kansas City internist.

Before the start of Wednesday night's doubleheader, which Chicago lost to Kansas City 2-1 and 4-3, Lopez complained of abdominal pains.

cago 2-1 and 4-3, and Los Angeles whipped Minnesota 5-0. Rain washed out Detroit and Boston.

Bouton held the Orioles to five hits before Russ Snyder singled and Curt Blefary homered in the eighth inning. New York's Clete Boyer tied the game 2-2 with a leadoff homer in the seventh, and Tom Tresh unloaded a three-run homer later in the inning.

Cleveland's Sam McDowell allowed six hits and struck out 11, but the Senators still handed the Indians only their third loss in the last 19 games. Washington broke a 1-1 deadlock in the second inning on Ken Hamlin's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded.

The Athletics gained their first decision over Chicago's Gary Peters after 10 defeats in the first game. They got to Peters for two runs in the first, Ed Charles driving in the first with a sacrifice fly and Mike Hersberger the second with a single. Kansas City won the nightcap in the ninth inning when Johnny Buzhardt hit Bert Campaneris with a pitch with the bases loaded. The Athletics tied it in the seventh as Larry Stahl cracked a two-run homer off Bruce Howard.

Fred Newman set down Minnesota on two singles as the Angels ended their losing streak at five. Bob Rodger and Bobby Knoop each knocked in two runs.

Home, Abroad Different Tales For Johnson

Dominican Republic
Causes Criticism

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Johnson heads into the last half of 1965 his record can also be split in half: very successful at home; a lot of unfinished, dangling overseas business that leaves the world wondering.

His popularity at home is high, the polls say. Overseas he has been criticized for his handling of foreign affairs, particularly in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

He hasn't shown yet the same masterful talent for foreign affairs that he has demonstrated repeatedly in domestic problems.

Relations Tranquil
His relations with Congress, business, labor, and civil rights groups have been excellent and tranquil. In getting Congress to do what he wants he is well on the way to the best record since President Franklin D. Roosevelt's early days.

He talks a lot, some times moralizing, some times in platitudes and some times in a way unmatched by any president, as in a recent speech expressing his compassion (a favorite word of his) for the Negro.

The astonishing he has shown in working at his job always has raised the inevitable question. How long can he keep it up?

There is a broad mystification about what to expect in foreign policy where Johnson plays the cards very close. For example: In six months how much deeper might the United States be in the Vietnam war?

Greeting Cool
When he went to San Francisco last week to address the 20th anniversary meeting of the United Nations he got a lukewarm reception although the reason is not clear.

Some of the restraint among the statesmen listening to him may have been intended to express disapproval of his foreign actions, some may have been out of disappointment that he didn't come up with new ideas and programs.

President John F. Kennedy, at his death but not in his first few months as chief executive, had a far more shining image abroad than Johnson. But this was after he got off to a bad start by backing the Cuban refugees' disastrous invasion of Cuba.

Yet, Kennedy's policy basically was not much different from Johnson's — except for the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Latin Intervention
Johnson has been criticized for intervening in the Dominican resort, a reminder to Latin Americans of the many times this country intervened in their affairs before. They couldn't tell whether they were looking at the beginning of a similar era under Johnson.

But Kennedy got an even worse reaction for the Cuban invasion.

Kennedy had slowly been building up American forces in Viet Nam. It's useless to try to guess now what he would have done eventually if confronted with the situation Johnson faced. Growing conquest by the Viet Cong and steadily developing chaos in South Viet Nam which, without American help, would have collapsed long ago.

There have been scattered, but comparatively few, critical voices against Johnson in Congress. Will this last?

Federal Grants Provide Funds for Student Jobs At State Universities

MADISON (AP) — Federal grants will permit students at Wisconsin's nine state universities to earn about $1.4 million in part-time jobs this summer and during the 1965-66 school year.

The university system's board of regents reported Wednesday that $275,180 already has been allocated for the summer session and $485,770 for the fall semester.

Federal funds pay 90 per cent of the student's salaries. The universities or other nonprofit agencies meet the remaining 10 per cent.

Allocations reported for the summer and the 1965-66 school year include Eau Claire $188,778; La Crosse $144,543; Oshkosh $115,170; Platteville $109,639; River Falls $94,384; Stevens Point $200,970; Stout $139,868; Superior $79,002; and Whitewater $193,129.

2,479,493 in Federal Government Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian employees of the federal government totaled 2,479,493 in May, an increase of 1,877 over April, a Senate-House committee reported today.

Expanded Attacks On Reds Started

U.S.-Vietnamese Paratrooper Strike First Move in New Strategy

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States apparently has embarked on an expanded attack strategy against the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Vietnam.

This is the significance of the policy decision behind the U.S.-Vietnamese military officials agreed it was highly desirable, spokesman said South Vietnamese leaders had been told the President approved the strike, according to this information.

Beyond Limits

The decision appeared to carry U.S. ground combat strategy in Viet Nam beyond the limits of policy so far announced, although a State Department statement three weeks ago could be interpreted to cover offensive moves of this kind.

On June 8 a State Department troops continued to be to guard key bases like the air base at Da Nang.

Disclose Change

The White House statement then rephrased the State Department disclosure of changing policy and imposed limitations to emphasize the defensive nature of what was planned.

"If help is requested by the appropriate Vietnamese commander," the White House said, "Gen. Westmoreland has authority within the assigned mission to employ these troops in support of Vietnamese forces faced with aggressive attack when other effective reserves are not available and when, in his judgment, the general military situation urgently requires it."

At that time, three weeks ago, two points were emphasized by officials here. One was that the U.S. Marines and paratroopers would be going into ground combat with the Vietnamese for defensive purposes. The other was that for a time at least each such operation would be subject to approval by President Johnson.

Defensive Role

Subsequent to the White House statement, Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a general review of U.S.-Vietnamese policy a week ago said U.S. battalions in Viet Nam had three tasks—to guard major installations and "to join in combat support of Vietnamese forces when such help is requested and when Gen. Westmoreland believes it should be given." Officials were still emphasizing that the third role, support of Vietnamese troops, was essentially defensive.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference Tuesday that troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade were carrying out jointly with South Vietnamese forces a "search and destroy" operation, confirming the offensive nature of the jungle strike.

DON'T PICK UP THIS HITCHHIKER

Summer time is the time for vacations, family fun, trips to far-a-way places, picnics and visits with relatives. Driving conditions are better than any other time of the year. Road surfaces have been repaired after winter's damage. Ice and snow no longer cover the roadways where drivers slowed their driving speeds during the winter months.

More people are traveling on the highways than at any other time of the year. Speeds are being accelerated and in some cases speed limits exceeded. Children are out of school and are playing near streets and riding their bicycles.

Every automobile driver is asked through this message to drive with the extra care and consideration that prevents accidents and deaths.

Police Committee For Ethics Planned By Senate Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a sequel to the politically high-voltage Bobby Baker investigation, Senate leaders planned today to activate today a new permanent committee to police senatorial ethics.

Three senators of each party already have been chosen for the new watchdog committee on standards and conduct, created by the Senate a year ago. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said it was decided to hold up announcing them until the Baker probe was finished.

Pope May Visit U.N. Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Vatican's United Nations observer said today he expected Pope Paul VI to attend the next session of the U.N. General Assembly to start in September.

Mgr. Alberto Giovannetti, the Holy See observer, told a reporter it is premature to speculate on just when the Pope might be here or how long he might stay. But he expressed hope the Pope could address the 114-nation assembly.

Three Men Arrested

Police Seize Weapons Believed Cuba-Bound

NEW YORK (AP) — Police reported today the seizure of mortars, machine guns, pistols and ammunition at a sporting goods shop that allegedly had been shipping armaments to an anti-Castro group inside Cuba.

Three men—one listed as a Cuban—were arrested. Detective Edward Lehane, head of a six-man detail that raided the shop, said armaments had been sent to South America for reshipment to Cuba. The South American destination was not made public. Weapons Seized Lehane listed the seized material as two 60mm mortars; 25 machine guns, 1,000 rounds of ammunition for the machine guns, a number of pistols and blasting caps, and detonators for the mortars. No mortar shells were found.

Lehane gave this account: Detectives learned that munitions for the anti-Castro group—for which no name was made public—were being shipped from the M. and D. Sports Shop

U. S. Entering 6th Straight Year in Red

BY STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government entered its sixth straight year of red-ink financing today but pointed with some pride to a sharply reduced deficit in the fiscal year just ended.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced that the fiscal 1965 deficit, on which the books closed at midnight, was an estimated $3.5 billion. That compared with President Johnson's January forecast of a $6.3 billion deficit. The secretary foresaw a $4.2-billion deficit for the new fiscal year. That implies a $1.1-billion improvement since January.

Some other officials predicted privately that this deficit, too, will be whittled down if the business boom continues. Assurance that the boom will indeed continue was given by Fowler at a fiscal year-end news conference. Conditions are excellent, he said, for "sound, stable and sustainable economic health and expansion."

Fowler went on: "So far as the eye of economic foresight can see ahead, there is no indication of economic difficulty."

Nikolay's Traffic Quota Count Irks Marathon Sheriff

WAUSAU (AP) — Marathon County Sheriff Henry Gaetzman took issue today with Assemblyman Frank Nikolay, Democratic majority leader in the State Assembly, for making that his department was implying arrests on a quota system.

The Abbotsford lawmaker forfeited $18 on a speeding charge before County Judge Ronald D. Kestler today. He was arrested last Saturday while on his way home from Camp McCoy.

The sheriff took exception to statements by Nikolay in a letter to the legislator addressed to the court. Nikolay said "it is this kind of a situation that makes one a little sour on traffic law enforcement by officers who have a quota to fill."

Gaetzman replied, "we have no quota. I have never told any man to make an arrest. We call the shots as we see them. We give no favoritism to politicians."

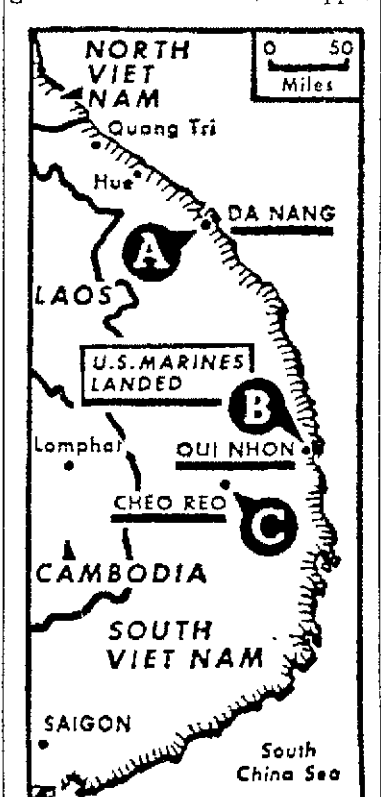

The sheriff, also a Democrat, said Nikolay "is talking through his hat."

BY PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong killed one American, destroyed three planes and damaged three others in a hit-and-run attack on the Da Nang Air Base today. But U.S. Air Force and Navy planes struck at North Viet Nam during the day without letup.

Bridges, barracks and radar installations were among the prime targets, and more propaganda leaflets were dropped over populated areas, a U.S. spokesman said. He said all planes returned safely.

More U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam, at the coastal city of Qui Nhon. A U.S. spokesman said between 400 and 500 were coming ashore from 7th Fleet ships and would provide security for the Qui Nhon area as well as "combat support for the Republic of South Viet Nam's armed forces."

Marine Defenses Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon, is the fourth area to be defended by the Leathernecks. The others are the air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon; Chu Lai, 20 miles south of Dan Nang, and Phu Bai, 35 miles north of Da Nang.

In the central highlands 150 miles south of Da Nang, four Americans and about 50 Vietnamese were killed in a Communist ambush near Cheo Reo. But the Red guerrillas were driven off with heavy losses after a day of close-in fighting.

The unofficial total of American combat dead in Viet Nam totaled 445 since December 1961.

Hit-Run Attack The hit-and-run attack at Da Nang was carried out while a majority of the Americans on the key base were asleep.

U.S. military authorities in Saigon said their information indicated a small group of guerrillas — possibly six men — infiltrated onto the base with explosives and 57mm recoilless rifles.

A spokesman said barbed wire circling the base was found cut.

In the confusion immediately following the attack, military men on the base had said the damage was done by 81mm mortar fire. Later reports indicated, however, that only about 10 rounds from mortars hit at the southern edge of the base and apparently did little damage.

Policeman Killed A U. S. spokesman said one U. S. Air Force policeman was killed by small arms fire and two U.S. Marines were wounded.

Two C130 Hercules transports and an F102 Delta Dagger jet interceptor were destroyed, and another Hercules and two Delta Daguers were damaged, the

Job Corps Has 11,220 Youths In 46 Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity took a head count as the old fiscal year went by and announced early today that 11,220 volunteers are now enrolled in job corps camps across the nation. An OEC staff tabulated enrollment figures wired from the 46 centers, and then called the boss, Sargent Shriver, at midnight to wish him a "happy 10,000." The 10,000 was the goal set for total enrollment in the program by the close of June 30, a spokesman said.

At that hour Shriver had only one comment: "Magnificent." The job corps is designed to help youngsters 16 to 21 who are out of school and out of work. It provides stepped-up education and job training for up to two years.

The bulk of the enrollees are being trained in 35 conservation centers, and the remainder in five women's camps and six urban centers.

Here's Mute Evidence of the damage done by the Viet Cong in its hit and run attack early Thursday at the Da Nang air base. A battered engine is all that remains of an F102 Delta jet interceptor, foreground. The other F102s, both damaged, are in background. One American was killed in the raid.

Suggests U.N.-Imposed Peace

Morse Calls for All-Out Effort To Halt War in South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse called on the Johnson administration today for an all-out effort to "stop the war" in Viet Nam and "to exhaust every possible means of doing so through the United Nations."

The Oregon Democrat, long an outspoken critic of President Johnson's Southeast Asian policy, declared that the President's 20th anniversary speech to the United Nations last week "unfortunately honored the Charter of the organization more in the breach than in the observance."

Noting that Johnson expressed a willingness to accept whatever effective action the United Nations might take, Morse said nothing "to indicate that the United States is willing to accept the obligations for international behavior placed upon us by our signature on that Charter."

U.N. Imposed Peace

"We can not stop the war alone," Morse declared in a speech prepared for Senate delivery. "But the United Nations could, if it would, and the United States has more to gain from a U.N.-imposed peace than from a continuation of the fighting that can lead anywhere but to victory on our terms."

If anything has been learned, Morse said, "it is that the United States, acting alone, can not end the war."

"At worst, we can help it develop into a nuclear holocaust," he added. "At best we can assure that it drags on indefinitely, while the people of South Viet Nam pay the price of being caught between the world's ideologies."

While Morse was speaking in the Senate, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michi-

Kosygin Wants NATO, Warsaw Pact Abolished

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin has reiterated a Soviet plea for simultaneous abolition of both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Warsaw Pact. He spoke in the first interview reported since he took office eight months ago. Details of the interview — by Turkish journalist Metin Tokur on June 25 — were published in Istanbul papers today.

Tokur quoted Kosygin as saying he did not mean that NATO should be abolished and the Warsaw Pact continue. He said they should be repealed together.

NAACP Convention

Drive Against Housing Discrimination Planned

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Plans for a drive against racial discrimination in housing are emerging from the 56th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Jack E. Wood Jr., codirector of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, said today he anticipated the drive would be "at least of the same magnitude" as the voter rights drive in the South.

Housing Director "Unlike voter discrimination, housing bias takes place all over the country — not just in the South," he said. Wood is a former housing director for the New York City Commission on Human Rights and the former housing secretary of the NAACP.

He said the NAACP will urge the federal government to withhold urban renewal funds from entire cities allegedly permitting housing discrimination and not just from specific projects. "The government must realize that a whole city is the recipient of these funds," Wood said, and should be held accountable.

Racial Equality There can never be racial equality in education, jobs, or health and welfare facilities when Negroes live in "shiny, new, black ghettos," Wood said.

Wednesday night, Wiley A. Branton, executive secretary of the President's Council on Equal Opportunity, assured NAACP delegates that the Johnson administration was solidly behind the civil rights movement.

A march by many of the more than 2,000 delegates through the streets of downtown Denver today is to be followed by an address by Patricia R. Harris, U.S. ambassador to Luxembourg.

Mrs. Harris is the first Negro woman ambassador.

French Elections Scheduled Dec. 5

PARIS (AP) — The French presidential election will be held Dec. 5, with a second round of voting Dec. 19 if no candidate gets a majority on the first round, Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte announced today.

He also said he expects President Charles de Gaulle to hold a news conference some time this summer, but added he was not authorized to say anything further on this subject.

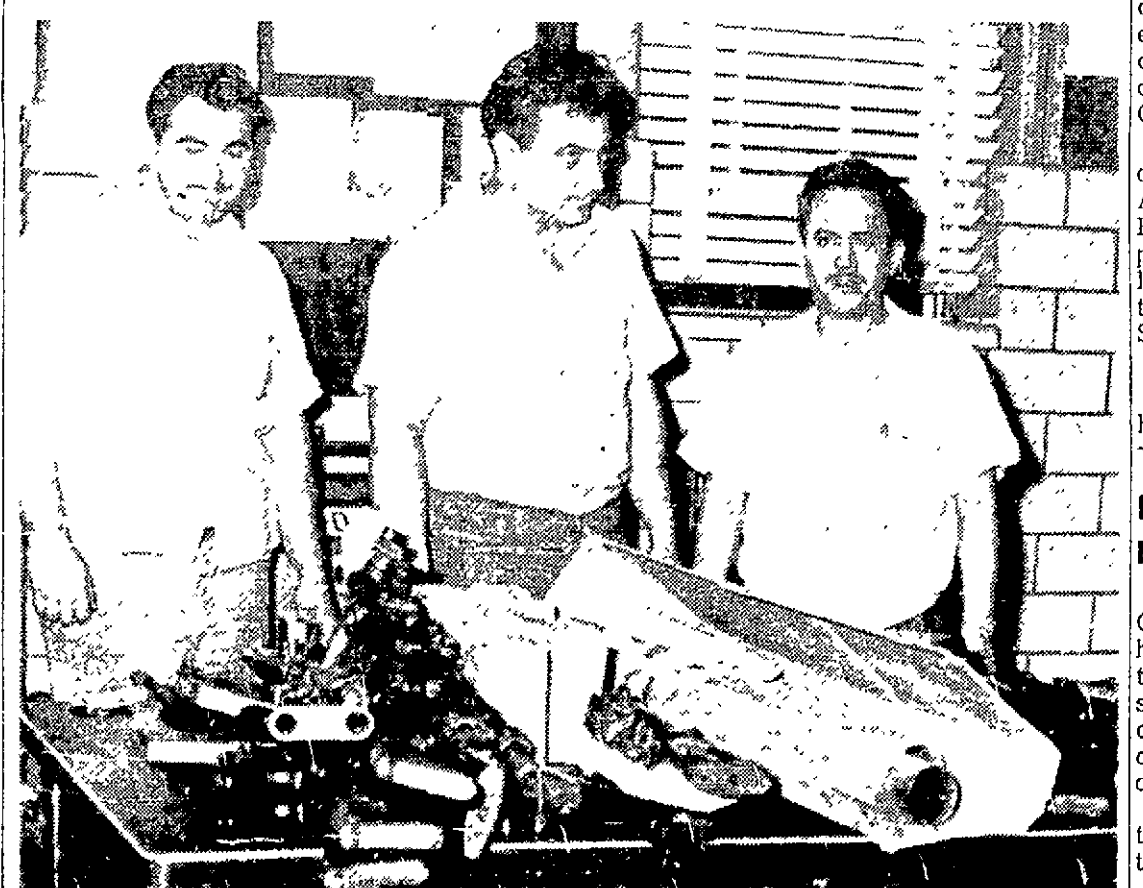

De Gaulle has not yet announced whether he will be a candidate for re-election to a seven-year term. No announcement is expected before but most of the president's political friends, and most of his opponents as well, seemed to take for granted that he will run again.

Hearing Tonight on School Budget for New London Area

Expenditures Are Expected to Drop About $26,000 in 1965-66

NEW LONDON — The board expected to adopt the spending of education will hold a hearing on its proposed $1,169,684 budget 8 p.m. today in the high school.

The budget is about $26,000 less than the one adopted for the concluded school year. That budget was $1,185,031 and actual disbursements were $1,104,297.

Taxpayers will pay $16.94 per $1,000 equalized valuation to meet the local tax levy of $60,000 from the $741,323 required for the last school year. A $3.03 decrease in the tax rate will result from the local tax requirement drop and increased valuation of the district.

Adoption Expected

Following the presentation of the budget and any discussion that may arise, the board is

Wisconsin Solon Appears at Senate Committee Hearing

WASHINGTON—Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has urged the Senate Agriculture Committee to guarantee market opportunity for dairy farmers in manufacturing milk areas by writing strong "right of access" provisions into any Class I Base bill it might recommend.

"It is possible through a base-excess plan... to erect almost insurmountable barriers to entry of milk into fluid milk markets under federal orders and to greatly inhibit the economic movement of milk between federal order markets," Nelson told the committee Tuesday.

"Either would be a setback for the manufacturing milk areas, particularly those in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin."

Farm Bill

Nelson's statement was presented as the committee considered the administration's omnibus farm bill, which does not contain a dairy proposal. There are reports, however, that a base-excess plan providing Class I quotas may be attached to the bill.

Nelson told the committee that base-excess plans have many limitations at best.

"But if one is recommended by this committee, it should contain strong 'right of access' provisions that would make it nondiscriminatory," Nelson said.

"The minimum safeguard that this committee should consider in any base-excess plan is the 'right of access' amendment language that was in the Proxmire bill when it passed the Senate two years ago."

Pointless Action

Nelson said it would be pointless for Congress to adopt a system of national sanitation standards guaranteeing the flow of milk across state lines on the one hand and adopt a base-excess plan that set up new economic barriers to milk marketing on the other.

He has joined Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota in sponsoring a bill to authorize the Public Health Service to establish uniform sanitation regulations that would guarantee free movement of milk across state lines.

North Central Begins Serving New Outagamie County Port

First Airline Flight Land Today At Town of Greenville Facility

North Central Airlines began serving the Fox Cities newest airport today when a DC3 touched down on the Outagamie County Airport runway at 10:40 a.m.

The landing represented a major victory for Outagamie County officials, who have spent much time and money trying to compel the airline to serve the Fox Cities at the new multimillion dollar facility in the Town of Greenville.

A delegation of county, city and chamber of commerce officials were on hand to greet the arrival of the aircraft.

Heading the welcoming committee were County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly; Mayor Clarence Mitchell, Appleton, and chamber of commerce Executive Secretary Delmar C. Drumm, Appleton. Also present were members of the county's airport committee and the chamber's aviation committee.

Keys to the new airport were presented to the airline's flight personnel aboard the DC3 which flew flight 231. North Central's ground personnel were presented gifts by the Chamber of Commerce. The presents were jokingly referred to as "let's bury the hatchet gifts."

Lawrence Gets $125,000

Milwaukee Woman's Bequest Gained in Downer Trust Fund

Lawrence University has received a bequest of $125,000 from the estate of the late Ada F. Gray of Milwaukee to establish scholarships for women residing in the metropolitan Milwaukee area. The latter is defined as Milwaukee, Waukegan and Ozaukee Counties.

The scholarship fund will be administered as a part of the Milwaukee-Downer College Trust Fund within the Lawrence University endowment, by a committee of Lawrence trustees.

It will honor the names of Mrs. Gray and her husband, the late Dr. Alfred W. Gray, who was staff physician at Milwaukee-Downer College for several decades.

Mrs. Gray's will provided that the $450,000 residue of her estate be divided between Milwaukee-Downer College and Columbia Hospital of Milwaukee. The division of the estate was at the discretion of Atty. E. H. Borgelt of Milwaukee, executor. He awarded Columbia Hospital $325,000 and Lawrence $125,000.

Before the division could be made, however, a court decision was obtained to designate Lawrence University as the legal successor to Milwaukee-Downer College and thus eligible for the bequest. There are several precedents for similar bequest situations after collegiate merger, among them Morningside College in 1919 and Coe College in 1922.

Calumet Seeks Foster Homes For Teen-Agers

Report Big Need For Placement of Children in County

CHILTON — Calumet County Department of Public Welfare is conducting a campaign for more foster homes, particularly for teen-agers.

Department Director Florence Woelfel has the responsibility of placing children from broken homes or those homes where parents are unable to care for them.

Miss Woelfel said prime prerequisites for good foster parents are understanding and love for children and the ability to cope with problems a child may present due to previous unwholesome family life.

Eligible Couples

Those eligible to become foster parents include couples without children, couples with children who want more or middle-aged couples whose own children have left home after completing school or marrying.

Foster homes are needed for children of all ages of the Catholic and Protestant faiths and in rural and urban settings. State law requires that all homes caring for non-related children be licensed welfare agencies. In Calumet County, the welfare department issues foster home licenses for approved homes. A home study by the department representative precedes the issuance of the license and the placement of a child. After a child is placed the department maintains contact with the foster parents to give case work services.

Foster parents are reimbursed for the costs of board, care, clothing and medical care by the department. However, some foster parents provide a free home, and in some instances wages are paid in return for services performed by an older child.

An evening get-together was held Monday to pay tribute to the county's 12 foster families. June had been proclaimed by Gov. Warren Knowles as Foster Parents' Month.

College Ave. The final tabulation for distribution, after costs of administration, was $369,019. The estate had been valued at $439,676, mostly in stocks and securities.

Named among the heirs were the Episcopal Church, $37,445, St. Elizabeth Hospital, and Appleton Memorial Hospital which received equal shares of $18,722 each.

Also receiving shares were John Jacquot, $52,035, and William Zuehlke, $58,471, both of Appleton; Harold Zuehlke, Milwaukee, and Susan Larson, Sioux City, Iowa; Richard Zuehlke, and Louis Benjamin, both of Appleton, all of whom received equal shares of $29,235 each. Mrs. Jacquot's home at 727 E. College Ave. was left to John Jacquot.

Groundbreaking for Central Services Building Scheduled For Monday at Veterans Home

KING — Groundbreaking ceremonies Monday for the new central services building at the Grand Army Home for Veterans here will begin the home's long-range development plan.

John R. Moses, director of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, made the announcement today in Madison. Ready to start or now in the planning stage are improvements totalling twice the dollar cost of all previous buildings from the establishment of the home in 1937 to date, Moses said. Completion of the long-range plan will provide facilities for 1500 members, he stated, compared to a present membership of 515.

Main Speaker

Main speaker at the groundbreaking ceremony, set for 11 a.m. at the home, will be Assemblyman Paul R. Alfonsi, Minocqua, assistant minority leader in the assembly, who was instrumental in securing approval for the new building in 1964. Architects for the building, are Schutte, Phillips and Mo-han, Milwaukee. General contractor is Hoffman Construction Co., Appleton.

To be built at a cost of $982,000, the new central services building will provide central kitchen, laundry, bakery, meat cutting, commissary and food storage facilities to replace facilities in several old buildings scattered about the grounds.

1500 Members

Planned to accommodate the maximum membership of 1500, the new building will be connected by tunnel to other permanent buildings on the grounds for more efficient service.

The second major project and largest now scheduled will be a $2.5 million nursing building on which work is expected to start this year. Groundbreaking ceremonies for the nursing home have tentatively been set for Sept. 19.

Kimberly School Board Seeks Solution for Student Increase

200 Additional Pupils Expected For 1966-67 Term in District

KIMBERLY — Three solutions to the problem of 200 additional students in the 1966-67 school year were aired Monday night.

The suggestions were presented at a special meeting of the Board of Education and representatives of district municipalities and townships from the school district.

The need for additional classrooms stems from discontinuance by Holy Name Church of the second grade in its parish school with the 1966-67 school year.

No solution was found at Monday's meeting, but three suggestions by Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools, were discussed and plans made for additional special meetings and discussions.

The first proposal was to build a new school on a site recently purchased in the Kuborn plat area west of the railway tracks. This was deemed impractical, since about 160 of the second graders live east of the tracks and would be traveling long distances to a school in the Kuborn area.

This property was purchased at one time served as assistant to St. Mary, Kaukauna.

The Rev. Donald Rose, once an assistant in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Appleton, will become the second missionary in Latin America from the diocese. Father Rose is leaving a post as chaplain at Kewaunee Area Memorial Hospital.

One-time chaplain at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, the Rev. Dennis Bouche will be administrator at St. John, Coleman, where he was once assistant. Father Bouche is an assistant at St. Peter, Oconto.

Appleton Taxi Firm Requests PSC Permit To Serve New Airport

Appleton Yellow Cab Co. has applied to the Public Service Commission (PSC) for an amendment to its certificate which would allow the firm to service the new Outagamie County Airport in Town of Greenville.

Lloyd Doerfler, president of the firm, said Yellow Cab will provide the same service at the new airport which it did at the old field in Town of Grand Chute.

All flights will be serviced, he said, including those of Air Wisconsin, once the new carrier gets started. Service is limited to passengers who have a prior or subsequent movement by air from or to the Outagamie County Airport, and including their baggage and parcels.

The hearing on the amendment will be July 20 in the court of the Outagamie County Courthouse.

In long range planning to provide an elementary school when present school population of the area warrants.

Another proposal was to construct a new junior high school on a site south of the existing high school. The present junior high could then be remodeled into an elementary building. This would make possible the building of a central kitchen, storage and maintenance areas, lunch room and administrative offices in the present junior high building.

Complete Floor The third proposal was to complete the second floor of the senior high school and add an industrial arts and music area. Originally scheduled for 1968 or 1969, this would permit use of the second floor of the high school for elementary purposes until 1968 and would provide two more years to seek other solutions.

By this time changes might develop at Holy Name which could result in the parish taking back some of the students enrolled in the public schools.

A preliminary study of the school budget for 1965-66 was begun with municipal and town officials.

Board members accepted the Kimberly Custodial and Maintenance Association as bargaining committee for non-supervisory custodial and maintenance personnel of the school system.

The board was presented with a recently completed school census which shows an increase of 200 under 20 years of age during the past year. Broken down it shows 1,586 under 5 years of age, compared to 1,668 in 1964; 2,367 between the ages of 5 and 11 compared to 2,239 the previous year; 745 between 12 and 14 compared to 678 in 1964; 551 between 15 and 17 compared to 538 in 1964; 264 between 18 and 19 compared to 192 the previous year.

Kimberly shows an increase from 2,047 to 3,105 in the census. Combined Locks increased from 1,299 to 1,399; Buchanan from 510 to 516 and Harrison from 459 to 493.

Bids Accepted Board members accepted low bid of $1,011 from Valley School Suppliers for new art desks. One other bid, $1,153, was received. Low bid of Panama Carbon Co. of $187 for duplicating fluid and $262 for thermal masters was approved. Seven bids were received, high for both being $595.

Seven firms submitted bids on 24 types of paper for use in the school system this coming year. Low bids accepted from three firms to bring total cost of the paper to $1,518. High bid totals exceeded $2,100.

Lawrence Gains Funds From Direct, Indirect Grants

Three foundations and industries have recently announced direct or indirect grants to Lawrence University.

The International Nickel Company, Inc., has made an unrestricted grant of $1,000 to Lawrence, supplementing similar gifts of past years. It is one of a series of grants made by the company to liberal arts institutions as a part of its program of continuing aid to higher education.

The S and H Foundation, Inc., higher education.

The S and H Foundation, Inc., of New York has given $1,195 to the Wisconsin Foundation of Independent Colleges, of which Lawrence is one of 18 members. The sum will be divided equally among the membership.

The Ford Foundation has approved a grant of $450,000 to the Associated Colleges of the Midwest for the strengthening of non-western studies in member institutions over a five-year period. The grant will be used for faculty fellowships, discipline workshops, library acquisitions and related administrative expenses.

The manner of dividing the grant between the 10 member institutions of the Associated Colleges of the Midwest is not yet known. Lawrence offers 18 courses in non-western studies.

Markesan Man Named To Conservation Group

MADISON (AP) — Leon A. Zuehlis, 60, a Markesan farmer, was appointed by Gov. Warren Knowles Wednesday to the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

Zuehlis, who succeeds Byron Bert of Blanchardville, served on the State Water Resource Interim Study Committee in 1957-58.

The first group of prints will be up until July 2, the second group from July 6-16 and the third from July 19-30. The student show will be seen from Aug. 2-13.

There is great variety in processes, styles and periods in the prints, which range from the 15th century to the present. Many of the prints in the Lawrence collection were gifts from the Carnegie Foundation.

Nelson Backs Price Cut

Subsidize Farmers For Reduced Dairy Product Income

WASHINGTON—Sen. Gaylord Nelson urged the U. S. Senate Agriculture Committee Tuesday to recommend his bill to cut retail prices of butter and other dairy products by up to 20 cents a pound through payments to farmers or dairy plants.

The proposal also would give the Secretary of Agriculture more discretion in raising dairy price support levels above the present minimum of 75 percent.

Nelson told the Committee that Congress should adopt a dairy program that would permit increases in the support price of milk and reverse the rapid drop in per capita consumption of dairy products.

Consumption Down "The latest figures available show that per capita consumption of nearly all the major dairy products is going down at a fairly rapid rate," Nelson said.

"This downward trend signals plenty of trouble for the dairy industry in the years ahead."

The payments would be made only on milk sold for manufacturing uses. Nelson said the bill would lower the price of butter and all other manufactured dairy foods containing butterfat, such as cheese and ice cream.

NOTICE

RESIDENTS OF APPLETON VOLUNTARY TEST BAN ON OUTSIDE BURNING

The City of Appleton requests you to voluntarily:

1. Stop all outside burning during July, August and September, 1965.
2. Collect and store all material which you usually burn outside and place on the curb for pick-up by city crews on your regular rubbish collection day every other week.
3. Cooperate during this three month "no burning" period so that the city can study the effects of this test ban and determine what steps are necessary to provide the City with an orderly and convenient way to eventually eliminate all outside burning in Appleton.

This ban is placed on a voluntary basis to avoid causing undue hardship or inconvenience; however, your cooperation and patience will be appreciated. If for reasons of fire safety, excessive accumulation or health hazard, it is not possible to save part or all of your burnable waste material, then it is permissible to burn outside providing burning is done according to the Fire Code Regulations explained below.

EXISTING BURNING REGULATION SUMMARY

HOURS—Daily between 2:00 P.M. and 7:00 P.M.
TYPE OF BURNER: All burners shall have their sides wholly or securely closed and covered with wire screening which shall not be smaller than No. 8 (1/8 inch in diameter) wire. The wire mesh shall not be more than one inch across.
LOCATION OF BURNER: No closer than 5 feet from a public sidewalk. No closer than 10 feet from trees, shrubs, bushes or fences. No closer than 15 feet from any building.
DEFECTIVE BURNER: An approved type burner which becomes defective shall be replaced before burning can be resumed.
MATERIALS WHICH SHALL NOT BE BURNED: Garbage, organic (including animal waste), asphaltic, rubber or plastic material or other materials producing an offensive odor shall not be burned in residential districts.
OPEN FIRES: No open fires may be started without a permit from the Fire Department. No permit shall be granted for open burning in a public street, alley or other public thoroughfare.
COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL BURNING: To avoid violations, business and industrial establishments should check with the Fire Department for existing ordinances on burning.

ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING BURNING REGULATIONS

The Fire and Police Departments shall enforce the Fire Prevention Code as follows:

1. City-wide inspections will be made regularly as the burning situation demands and all complaints will be investigated. Every effort shall be made to inform the residents of Appleton of the need for and the desirability of cooperating with the voluntary test ban as well as the regulations governing outside burning.
2. Any resident of the City found to be violating the burning ordinance will be issued a written warning for the first offense. He will be given seven days in which to correct this violation.
3. After this seven day period has expired a reinspection will be made to determine if the resident has complied with the regulation covering his offense. No further action will be taken if he has complied. If a violation still exists and the resident has continued to burn despite the warning, then a second ticket shall be issued and appropriate action taken to prosecute the violator.
4. A second complaint against a resident who has previously been issued a written warning shall result in his being issued a second ticket if a violation is again found to exist. This second ticket shall also result in appropriate action being taken to prosecute the offender.

The UN—Twenty Years After

There was something of a what-might-have-been feeling in the speeches in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the United Nations last week. But there was very little discussion of any practical ways to revive optimism that the U. N. could once more become the "last great hope" of mankind as it was when organized in San Francisco in 1945.

President Johnson spoke of the possibilities of a world-wide struggle against the poverty which is a major cause of war and disruption for many peoples of the world. He also asked for United Nations assistance in halting the aggression in Viet Nam. But his speech disappointed many who somehow felt that the President of the United States would come up at the last moment with the solutions to the major problems which now afflict the United Nations. The selfish drives for power of individual members and their efforts to use the United Nations for their own purposes, and the financial chaos which gives no assurance the U. N. can keep its bills paid much less take on new responsibilities, seem no closer to solution than a year ago.

The delegate from the Soviet Union, however, was the only speaker who used the occasion for national political purposes unless one counts President Johnson's reference to the Vietnamese struggle. Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko charged that the United States was really trying to undermine the United Nations through alleged aggression in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. He even worked out somehow the complaint that the United States had artificially created a financial plight for the United Nations.

Certainly President Johnson's request for United Nations backing in Viet Nam was not a wholly unselfish suggestion. Turning over the problems in Viet Nam to the international organization would help the United States as far as wide world opinion is concerned, especially if the fighting there would then be under United Nations auspices as was the Korean war. But there has been no effort to pick up the challenge by other United Nations members. The Russians, who wanted the Security Council to meet in Santo Domingo not to restore peace but because the Communists disagreed with the way the Organization of American States was handling things, were strangely quiet about United Nations intervention in Viet Nam. The conclusion must be that only efforts of other international organizations of a regional nature must be set aside by United Nations action and not conflicts in areas such as Southeast Asia where the regional organization is virtually impotent. U Thant, too, avoided this very real issue by speaking vaguely about the policies of some member nations being inimical to the purpose of the United Nations.

Ambassador Stevenson made a somewhat acid but very apt remark on Fedorenko's speech. "This is a commemorative session though for a moment this morning I was not sure whether we were commemorating the birth of the United Nations or the birth of the Cold War. . . I must say that the Soviet Union might do more good by supporting peaceful settlements than by attacking my country for defending small countries from aggression and, indeed, by aiding the aggressor."

Where can the United Nations go from its twentieth anniversary? The outlook is poor as far as its being an effective organization for preventing both war and international injustice. It is unable to take any real action to halt aggression by strong countries and its financial difficulties have made its effectiveness in restraining even small-time international bandits much less in the last two years. It is now primarily a debating society. But, even in this far more minor role than was conceived 20 years ago, it still provides an outlet for some who feel they must take a stand and by so doing absolve themselves of the necessity of acting. This is a major weakness of the United Nations as it is presently constituted, too. The several resolutions condemning Russian actions in Hungary were considered enough of a protest so that United Nations actions which might have succeeded if taken in time were evaded.

Of course the United Nations should continue to exist and with United States participation and the firm declaration of our points of view at all times. But it is equally obvious that we cannot rely upon the United Nations for strong backing of our policies and even for any real help in various parts of the world. Too many members have developed their own individual power drives and aspirations and care far more about those than the once world-wide vision of peace.

Waterway Marking

One of the most important of the new laws produced in Madison during the first five months of the legislature's deliberations gives the conservation commission authority and the responsibility for the development of a uniform system of waterways marking on all of the waters within the state.

The new code will be mandatory for all municipalities and all persons involved after Jan. 1, 1968, which provides ample time for careful planning, hearings, publicity and deliberation.

While there can be little doubt about the desirability of a uniform marking system for the waterways, even as the people of Wisconsin recognized the essentiality of uniform road traffic markings several generations ago, there were some mild objections to the measure during its legislative journey. Some municipal spokesmen objected that to the extent the state may prescribe styles and devices differing from those they have used upon their own initiative and at their own expense, they would be burdened with a considerable additional cost. Such objections are worthy of the consideration of the conservation commission, and we are confident that the agency will regard them respectfully, even to the extent of temporary exemptions where that seems reasonable.

The primary consideration in this program obviously is the state's responsibility for laws protecting life. Some of our waterways are becoming crowded, as boaters are uncomfortably aware, and as the landlubber can discern with the naked eye from the shore. While the statistics on boat ownership testify to the enormous growth of water sports, there is very little assurance that the thousands of new mariners putting into the lakes and streams each year are skilled or schooled.

Beyond such considerations, our Wisconsin waters are powerful lures for the vacation trade which is vital to so many localities and districts of our state. There is a movement for a uniform waterways marking system nation-wide, and Wisconsin cannot afford to be laggard in joining it.

Trading Tax Burdens

One of the suggestive sidelights emerging from the bitter and tangled tax negotiations at Madison is the coincidence that the people of Wisconsin as individuals are likely to pay to the state government during the next two years the money they may have expected to save in the federal excise tax reduction act recently made effective.

One of the officials in the Madison discussions related that the money value to Wisconsin residents of the federal tax modifications is likely to be about $75,000,000. That happens to be about the amount that is likely to be paid by individuals in one way or another in the new state tax package, when the quarrelsome statehouse politicians finally decide how they will dispose of their revenue problem. It may be an ironic twist of events. But it may also be a comfort. We appear to be trading tax liability between Madison and Washington, for the moment at least.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 8, 1865.

(During the years of his young judgeship, James Duane Doty lived in Green Bay. The Wisconsin pioneer and statesman, who served as territorial governor from Oct. 5, 1841, to Sept. 16, 1844, later lived in the "grand loggery" on present Doty Island, Neenah. The following excerpt is the second part of the sketch of his life reprinted in the Crescent from the Green Bay Advocate, which made no mention of Doty's Neenah years. A replica of his pioneer home now stands in Doty Park, near its original site. Doty died July 13, 1865, in Utah when he was territorial governor of that state. His burial place is in Salt Lake City.)

In 1823, Congress created a judicial district comprising all the country west and northwest of Lake Michigan and the straits of Mackinaw, and James Duane Doty, then but 23 years of age, was appointed Judge. His administration of the law was conducted with singular ability and he was universally popular in the District.

The substitution of civil rule for military rule, however, which had prevailed before that time, so excited the ill feeling of military officers stationed at Frontier posts that strenuous effort was made by them, headed by the notorious traitor Twigg, for his removal from office. After eight years of trial they succeeded in getting the law amended so to limit the term of office to four years. When Judge Doty's time expired in 1831, they succeeded in preventing his re-appointment.

The judge, however, was not long retired from public service. In 1833, he was elected a member of the Legislative Council of Michigan and served until the State Government of Michigan was formed in the peninsula of Michigan. After the erection of the Territory of Wisconsin (originally part of Michigan Territory) he continued to take an active part in politics and in 1839 was elected a delegate to Congress.

Two years later he was appointed a governor of the Territory (Wisconsin Territory), which office he held but two years and resigned.

He was afterwards a member of the first (Wisconsin) Constitutional Convention in 1846, and from 1849 to 1853 represented the Congressional District in the House of Representatives of the United States.

His next public service was as Superintendent of Indian Affairs and afterwards Governor of Utah, which office he received from our late la-

Need More Radars

Tornado Control Becomes Goal Of Weather Bureau Experts

WASHINGTON — Meteorologists believe that man may someday be able to thwart tornadoes, the destructive and freakish storms that have caused heavy loss of life in the spring of 1965.

The current twisters have driven planks like spears through solid masonry walls. A black-top road in Michigan was rolled back as if it were a rug.

Ordinary wind-measuring devices are smashed by tornado winds moving perhaps 400 or more miles an hour, the National Geographic Society says. But a new type of radar called the Doppler system will soon enable research scientists to measure for the first time the fantastic speed of particles caught up in the dark, rotating funnels of the storms.

Weathermen cannot yet predict exactly when or where a deadly cone of wind will burst from the clouds and scythe across the countryside. However, a certain combination of conditions appears indispensable for a tornado's formation: moist, warm air at low levels and cool, dry air at higher levels; a southerly wind at the surface and a strong wind blowing over it from a different direction.

During the past few years, meteorologists have had immented President Lincoln, and this he held at the time of his death.

'Honey Dew' Disease Hits Retired Men

There is still a lot of work left in many an old horse turned out by the so-called compulsory retirement plans of companies. Many are finding things to do on their own, not so much for the money but to have something to do. Others are sitting around moping because time hangs heavy on their hands, and they lack the initiative to create something in the way of work.

At a recent trade convention, for example, a man who had retired from business two years ago was being questioned as to why he had gone back into business, creating a new company at his age.

The fellow puffed away on his cigar, listened to all the questions and wisecracks about having plenty of time to go fishing and instead he goes back to work, building a company.

Then he gave them the answer:

"I got a bad case of honey dew disease. Going back into business looked like the only way to cure it."

"What's honey dew disease?" he was asked.

"All day long, from morning until night, all I heard around the house was 'honey, do this and honey, do that!' I got enough of it!" he replied.

of Oklahoma campus at Norman are flying into the violent thunderstorms with which tornadoes are associated.

"The big problem is to understand the dynamics of tornadoes and ultimately to predict them," says Dr. Spar. "Over the last five years we have succeeded in developing a somewhat more satisfactory model of what environmental conditions are associated with tornadoes. But a good deal more work needs to be done."

Another problem being studied by the Weather Bureau is to develop an early-warning and communication system to alert the public, especially at times when most people would not be listening to their radios or watching television.

Forecast Zone
Weathermen were once forbidden to mention tornadoes for fear of causing a panic. Now they can say that a tornado is likely to form in a certain 20,000-square-mile area; their current task is to whittle down the forecast area.

Eventually, when weathermen know the exact causes of a tornado, they may be able to prevent its formation, possibly by a cloud-seeding technique.

Record Set in 1925
A tornado is born several thousand feet above the ground. It may never touch the earth, or its spinning funnel may bounce along the ground, leaving some areas unscathed in the path of destruction. Generally a tornado travels no more than 20 to 40 miles, though some have gone 300.

The worst twister on record killed 689 and injured 1,980 persons in the Midwest in 1925.

Every state has been hit at one time or another. But some states get more than their share. Texas averages 23 each year, Kansas 26, and Oklahoma 24. Tornadoes strike in the United States more than elsewhere, but they also have occurred in Canada, Africa, Central Asia, Australia, and New Zealand.

Wisconsin Report

'Task Force' Members' Ideas Good But Many Have Been Considered

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — It is a commonplace in the state capitol that an occasional public affairs study expedition by responsible and perceptive private citizens is a good and wholesome thing even if the consequences are limited to the creation of a new nucleus ment that is rapidly approaching the billion dollar expenditure level.

Some of these men have been surprised, it appears, that most of their own ideas about progressive and productive changes of method and structure have been considered before. They should not be surprised. The idea of across-the-board reorganization is an old one. What has been lacking has been the concerted push and the public response that are required to overcome the inevitable reluctance or resistance of public officials to the uncertainty of change. Yet from what can be learned about the deliberations and tentative findings of these public-spirited volunteer public service auditors, they may find a more encouraging climate for their report than have some of the more casual and hurried advocates of structural reform in the past.

This reporter has had the opportunity to confer with some of the members of the Gov. Knowles "task force," as it is called in the clumsy lexicon of the times, which has been assigned the task of examining the structure and the administrative performance of the state government establishment which has grown so rapidly in recent years and almost surely will continue to expand.

In a couple of decades or more of observation from the capitol press galleries, a reporter sees scores of such groups come and go.

Some of the men now at work, however, are exceptional in their keen interest in their task, and in their stature as administrators in commerce and industry.

ANONYMOUS
They have chosen to work as anonymously as possible, for good reasons. Among them is the desire to avoid any imputation of hostility or preconceived criticism of the public services.

As far as can be ascertained, their respectful attitude toward the professional administrators in the agencies has been reciprocated by the professional agency officials almost without exception. One day soon, it may be expected that they will publish some of their major conclusions, for such uses as Gov. Knowles may put them in his declared purpose of achieving some reorganization of the scatter-quilt organization of a govern-

It matters not how many technical problems we solve or surmount, there will be no peace and little real progress in the world until we are able to make the optimum equation between freedom and order in human society.

Fear Unknown
We hate what we fear, and we fear what we do not know; the ancient half-truth that "knowledge is power" should be revised to read "knowledge is acceptance of otherness."

In times of misfortune, we are prone to reflect that we do not deserve such unhappiness; but in times of felicity, it rarely occurs to us that we are equally undeserving of such happiness.

Sleepers Hide In Military Funds Bill

Johnson Now Does Not Need Congress To Get War Funds

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—There are three "sleepers" in the House-passed $45,188,000,000 military appropriations bill of far-reaching significance and potentiality. In effect, they give President Johnson a blank check to wage all-out war and provide funds vastly exceeding the $45,188,000,000 with which to do it—without further recourse to Congress, as follows:

Section 512—empowers the President to spend these vast sums at any rate he deems necessary—"in onth month or in one week, if required for the nation's defense." Under the Anti-Deficiency Act, government agencies are limited to expending their annual appropriations on a quarterly basis. This restriction is waived for the armed forces by Section 512.

Section 512 (c)—authorizes calling into active service an unspecified number of "additional forces to meet national defense requirements."

Defense Department — Enactment of this appropriation measure will actually make available some $75 billion to the Defense Department in the next 12 months. The other $29 billion is unexpended carry-overs from previous appropriations, of which approximately $9 billion is "legally unobligated."

Extraordinary thing about these unnoticed "sleepers" is that they slipped through the House without a word of discussion or dissent.

After several hours of desultory consideration, the chamber approved this gigantic appropriation measure (slightly less than half the entire $99 billion national budget) by a vote of 407 to 0.

Also unmentioned were the following directly related, highly pertinent facts:

The war in Viet Nam is now costing $20 million a week—solely for the maintenance and operations of U.S. forces, army, navy, air. This is at a rate of more than $1 billion a year.

Steady Increase

These heavy outlays will double by September as U.S. forces there are steadily increased.

In addition, economic and military aid to South Viet Nam is now running at $2 million a day; around $725 million a year. This also is expected to increase, particularly military aid for expanded South Viet Nam forces.

OUT IN THE OPEN—While the three momentous "sleepers" whizzed through the House unchallenged and unpublicized, no secrecy was made of them.

Representative George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, spelled them out frankly and clearly in his detailed floor presentation of the bill.

He made no reference to the intensifying Viet Nam conflict, but he plainly implied that was the reason for these exceptional provisions. Said Mahon:

"Everybody knows that we live in a dangerous world and that the future is unpredictable. No one, not even the President, who is fortified by a staff of advisers and assistants, can foresee with certainty what the future hold in the field of international relations.

Expand Funds

"Under the Anti-Deficiency Act, normally a government department must expand funds provided for the year on a quarterly basis, and may not exceed the rate of expenditures in one quarter over the pro rata part that would be assigned thereto. Section 512 provides that the President could approve the expenditure of all the funds in this bill in one quarter, in one month, or in one week, if required for the nation's defense.

"Section 512 (c) provides that additional forces can be called into service and paid, even on a deficiency basis, to meet national defense requirements. These sections create tremendous flexibility which we deem desirable in this unpredictable world."

Similarly, Mahon was equally candid regarding the $29 billion in unexpended defense funds, as follows:

On July 1, the Defense Department will have on hand for purposes generally covered in this bill an unexpended carry-over from previous years of about $29 billion. Included in that sum is most of the $700 million which we provided for the Southeast Asian conflict a few weeks ago.

Pending Bill — "When the sum proposed in the pending bill is added to the unexpended balance, a total of about $75 billion will be available for defense in the forthcoming fiscal year.

"Of the carryover funds of some $29 billion, most are committed or obligated. Approximately $9 billion is not legally obligated. I say without hesitation that in my judgment this measure is adequate for the present. Likewise, I say without hesitation that it does not provide all of the funds that will most likely be needed for the entire fiscal year."

Also noted by Mahon was that the $45,188,000,000 military appropriation measure does not include more than $1.5 billion for military construction, around

July Should be Busier Month Than Usual

Some of Activity Will Anticipate Steel, Labor Negotiations

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — July should be livelier this time than customary for the usually take-it-easy month. Factories will be busier. Fewer will be closing down for long vacations. In slacker years these often are prolonged for maintenance, repair and other reasons.

A lot of the bustle in the coming month will be due to concern over what may happen in the steel labor negotiations. But a lot will be due to the generally faster economic pace this year than last.

The business upswing is now in its 53rd month, with slow-downs more talked about than apparent as yet.

Few Changes The stock market provided the most excitement in June. But the long downturn in prices appears to have changed few business plans.

Steel mills report orders on hand will keep them turning out metal at a faster clip than previous Julys.

Customers will be stockpiling some of it as a hedge against the threat of a steel strike Sept. 1. But manufacturers will be using up a lot of the steel to meet their own big backlog of orders.

Many expect the steel labor situation to jell this month. Labor's demands should become clear — and also, how far management will go in meeting them. At stake: A strike, an expensive settlement that could mean price increases, or a settlement within the gains in productivity so that the price line can be held.

Auto Industry Concern over the steel situation is reported to be affecting some of the auto industry's plans. One result is to make for a lively July. Shutdowns for model changeovers may come a bit later this year, while the industry piles up a stock of cars in dealers' hands to tide them over in case a steel strike hampered production in the early fall.

Many business firms report confidence that profits will continue to rise during July and the rest of the third quarter. Corporate earnings hit a record peak in the first three months of the year. The total apparently rose again in the last three months, although probably at a slower rate.

Unless unexpected events in July deal blows to business and consumer confidence, better than seasonal activity should keep the comparative profit figures on the pleasant side.

One activity that seems sure to have a fresh record in the

Viet Cong Survives Modern Weapons

Correspondent Reveals Methods Of Guerrillas After 4-Year Study

EDITOR'S NOTE — How is the Viet Cong able to do it? How can a guerrilla force survive the onslaught of modern weapons and go on to fight another day? Here is a study of guerrilla methods in Viet Nam, reported by a correspondent whose four years in the war area have given him many chances to observe Viet Cong methods.

BY MALCOLM W. BROWNE SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — You can pretty well reconstruct the way the Viet Cong operates:

A small brown man squats underground in an improvised echo chamber, straining his ears for the slightest sound.

Naked except for black shorts, a long rice pouch over one shoulder and a belt slung with hand grenades, he has been squatting patiently for hours.

It is nearly dark in the chamber, except for daylight streaming through the sound slots around the top. Through these slots, the first sounds come, reflecting from the curved sides of the chamber and amplifying at the man's ears. Then the distant thudding of helicopter rotor blades.

Shadowy Men The man, wriggling through a short tunnel to the surface, can yell an alarm. Instantly, shadowy men lounging or cooking at the bases of the tall trees are on their feet and moving fast. The heavy equipment from last night's battle has been stowed for future use in deep, camouflaged holes. The bodies have been buried.

The men move rapidly, scattering in many directions in twos and threes. This is their base area, and they know every feature of the dense jungle in the area — the hidden trails, the camouflaged bunkers and tunnels, the gun emplacements, the mines and booby traps.

Viet Cong positions were first prepared here years ago and with each month the positions have been improved. The Viet Cong guerrilla spends much of his day digging, even when there is no immediate need for it.

The entrance to a tunnel might be under a heavy rock, it might be under the hearth of a peasant's hut, it might be under water in the bank of a mountain stream. Only by sheer luck would a government soldier find one, and if he did, he probably would kill only a few Viet Cong, the rest would be elsewhere.

Bunkers Deep In an air raid, some of the tunnels and bunkers would be crushed. A jellied furnace of napalm would ooze down into some of the air holes. But many of the bunkers would be deep enough to survive even direct hits by heavy bombs, and their galleries of men and weapons bag is vacation and travel spending.

Americans are taking longer vacations, longer trips, and spending more on their way and after they get there. Benefitting are the resorts themselves, transportation companies, gas stations, motels, sellers of recreation gear. The last can range all the way from swimming suits to cabin cruisers, mountain climbing outfits to seashore cottages.

would survive. At nightfall, it would be safe to move around again.

The government soldier might find just empty space here, or his battalions might walk into a jungle trap, a devastating mortar barrage from prepared positions, followed by a regimental guerrilla onslaught. He would have to thread his way carefully through the jungle, and take a series of casualties from man-traps and snipers.

Most of all he would have to move in large groups because uniformed stragglers do not live long in the jungle. Big groups on the other hand always betray their presence. The guerrillas could choose to slip away or fight, on their own terms.

Nearly always, the Viet Cong will know what to expect, long in advance.

Warning System The warning may come from the echo chamber. It may come in a radio message from a comrade miles away. It may come from peasants in the area, who either fear the Viet Cong or are more or less on the Viet Cong side. It may come from a bar girl who was drinking with government or American troops the night before.

The tip may come from the strike force itself. If it is to be an air strike, there always will be a light reconnaissance plane cruising over the area hours or perhaps days in advance. The prolonged presence of a light plane anywhere in Viet Nam is a sure sign of an impending government air strike or assault.

The South Vietnamese haul men and cannon and gear in trucks as far as they can, or use helicopters that may be limited in their landing zones to a few clear patches in the jungle. The guerrilla almost always will move overland, toting everything he needs on his back, and skirting the roads, unless he wants to ambush them.

Undisciplined Soldiers When the government forces are finished for the day, they probably will move to some safer area before nightfall. Night belongs to the guerrilla. If government forces decide to stay overnight, they often bivouac in a small area, setting up a perimeter defense. Undisciplined soldiers may chatter and cook, perhaps even using lanterns. They can become sitting ducks for a mortar barrage.

So far, the powerful weapons of the 20th century have had little more effect on the Viet Cong guerrillas than did the British Redcoats, with their superior musketry, on the American guerrillas of two centuries ago.

It is a hard tactic to beat. In the jungle, the wilderness itself is the guerrilla's best friend. In the cities and towns, the guerrilla's best camouflage is people. A guerrilla terrorist in a crowded city looks no different than hundreds of thousands of other youths.

He is likely to be wearing dark trousers and a sport shirt, and he probably has a bicycle, motor scooter or even automobile. Only by luck will an unusually conscientious policeman stop him to check the bundle on his scooter.

He may even be dressed in Vietnamese army uniform. Two bogus Vietnamese army officers drove into the courtyard of the U.S. officers' Brink Hotel last Christmas Eve, parked a Jeep and walked away. Within an hour half the hotel was a blazing, bomb-blasted pile of rubble.

Fanatical Youth The terrorist may be working in a cell infiltrated by a government informer. He may be caught, and end up before a firing squad in Saigon's central market. He probably is a fanatic ally anti-American youth who will yell anti-American and Communist slogans before the bullets cut him down.

The half-dozen other terrorists who share his cell also may be arrested and shot.

But smashing one cell does not stop the terror. The cells are built into a tight system of con-spiratorial secrecy. Members rarely know anyone in the terror network outside their own immediate cells.

"We have yet to develop a machine that could tell at a glance whether or not a man is a Viet Cong. If we could do that, this battle would be won," a U.S. counterintelligence operative said recently.

So far, the powerful weapons of the 20th century have had little more effect on the Viet Cong guerrillas than did the
